EDITORIAL BRIEFS.

THE total production of minerals in the United States in 1884 reached $413,104,620.

WOULDN'T it be a feather in Gladstone's cap were he to be called back to power in England after all this folly?

HON. WILLIAM E. GLADSTONE, was right when he refused to accept an Earldom. No showy title can add to his glory.

WILL the Marquis of Salisbury bounce the "offensive partisans" as soon as he gets down to business in his new position?

GAIL HAMILTON says that the greatest enemy to Prohibition is the Prohibition political party, and she is about correct.

EX-SENATOR ROSCOE CONKLING sailed for Europe a few days ago. His superb health has been greatly injured by overwork.

CHAUNCEY DEPEW has been elected to succeed the late Mr. Rutter as President of the New York Central Railroad Company.

E. H. CHASE, ex-collector of Internal Revenue for the Twelfth District, is spoken of as another candidate for the State Treasury nomination.

ACCORDING to the Philadelphia Press, Senator Longnecker is the man who ought to be allowed to reach up and gather the State Treasury plum.

IT has been suggested that Blaine will speak in Ohio this fall in the interest of Foraker and the mere suggestion sent a thrill of terror to the hearts of the Democrats.

WHEN we come to consider the relative merits of Gladstone and Disraeli it is well to remember that the latter was small enough to fit into an English Earldom while the former was too big.

THE Philadelphia Press is the ablest advocate of Protection in this country.—Louisville Courier-Journal. That's a fact. And it is also true that Protection is the ablest thing to advocate in this country.

SECRETARY BAYARD, having been caught in a historical error, now says he did not assert that his grandfather voted for Jefferson. It would be interesting to know just what the Secretary did say of his grandpa.

REPUBLICANS have little reason to expect success this fall if they spend their strength in calling each other hard names such as the Williamsport Gazette and Bulletin is now applying to the Philadelphia Press.

AMONG the acts passed by the legislature was a new marriage law which will render it impossible hereafter for anyone to be married without first taking out a license for which 50 cents must be paid. We understand that the bill has not yet received the Governor's signature, although he is expected to sign it.

THE enmity of some people is a compliment, and the enmity which ex-President Hayes has made in the Democratic camp is especially so. He was so far ahead of any president who has ever been spared from the assassin's knife or bullet to serve out a full term that the naturally wicked Democrats dislike him. But possessing the satisfaction of having done his duty, he can well despise them.

THE Philadelphia Press discovers that the habit of swearing is becoming less prevalent in this country, and believes that its abandonment is due to the increase of education in the use of language and the discovery that an oath is an inadequate and unsatisfactory way of expressing one's feelings and emotions.

A Stupid Sailor.

On the afternoon of Thursday, the 18th, a sailor employed on the Guyandotte, a steamer of the Old Dominion line, lying in New York harbor, performed a most stupid act and one which sunk the steamer in North river and damaged the steamer and her cargo to the extent of $30,000. The story told by telegraph is to the effect that the sailor whose name was Lafland, was sent into the lower engine room to take apart the feed pump valve. But instead of doing as he was told, he made the error of removing the 12-inch sea valve, which would allow the water of the river to rush in and sink the ship in short meter. It was a difficult undertaking for one man, but Lafland kept at it until it was accomplished. Then when the water of the North river shot through in a volume a foot in diameter and with the roar of a cyclone Lafland was scared out of his wits and ran away as fast as two legs would carry him. The water filled the ship and sank it before anything could be done to avert the calamity. But since then a diver went into the engine room and replaced the sea valve and the water was pumped out and the ship raised, but with $30,000 loss.

Now the question occur to us, What is the lesson taught by this stupid sailor's blundering act? But before pointing a moral to adorn a tale let us be thankful that the sailor did not accomplish his feat while the vessel was in deep water with all the crew on board.

It might teach us a lesson in National affairs. The country, by means that we hope were fair, but which seem to be somewhat unfair, sent a blunderer to Washington City to manage the executive department of government. It told him to rule right and manage affairs for the best interests of the country. But instead of that he opened a sea valve, and has permitted a flood of dishonest northern politicians and southern rebels to subvert the government. The Mannings, Higginses, Phelpses and the Meades are the names now most prominent, and the man sent there is said to be trembling before the on-rushing horde. The Ship of State will be forced to sink to the bottom of the river with serious loss. But the diver is at hand. Let us send him—James G. Blaine, of Maine—to close the flood-gates, and if we all pump together he can restore to us a government of purity and loyalty.

Punishment for Wife-Beaters.

A man was severely whipped on the bare back a few days ago in Maryland for beating his wife. The Maryland law which imposed this punishment for such an offense has been in force a little more than three years. It is regarded by some as a step backward, which it certainly is so far as history is concerned, but is not wrong because of that. A similar act was proposed by Senator Adams last winter in our own legislature, but failed to receive serious consideration. We agree with the Philadelphia Press that the principle of making punishment correspond in kind to the offence is recognized in our law. The man who takes life deliberately is hanged, and a part of the sentence of a thief is that he restore the property stolen. It is a wholesome principle and should be extended. The lusty animal who beats and bruises the helpless women of his household should be made to suffer as he made them suffer. Fine and imprisonment cannot reach his case. They are no preventive at all and punish those who are dependent upon him more than they do the man himself.

Whether it is a step backward or forward, flogging for wife beaters is a step in the right direction, and other states would do well to follow Maryland in her departure from the modern method of making it as easy as possible for the brutal and violent criminal class.

THE Republicans have reason to be thankful that the apportionment bill did not receive the Governor's signature as the one now in force is much more to their interest.

Have we a Navy?

The Secretary of the Navy, says the Pittsburg Dispatch, refuses to accept the Dolphin on the ground that she has been shown to be unfit for ocean service. The question of fact is likely to be a disputed one; and when it is sustained, there is likely to be the further question as to whether the defects are due to the plan of construction or the work done by the builder. Altogether, our last attempt to build a navy turns out to be the most hopeless muddle of all. The evident desire of the Democratic party to show that the Republican naval administration has been both incompetent and corrupt, will probably make the public anxious to know exactly what the Dolphin can do. If Mr. Roach should sell her to some foreign power and she should turn out to be a good ship, the honors of the dispute would not be wholly with the administration.

While this great country is making a party question of the building of a navy, the attempt of the United States Government to protect the rights of its citizens in Ecuador has been blocked by the alliance of that State with Chili. The last of these small South American States has a war vessel that can eat up the whole United States navy and destroy every ocean port that we possess. Consequently, the best thing that the United States can do is to be very meek until their rulers and their shipbuilders are able to work together in harmony long enough to build a fleet that can cope with Chili's single fighting vessel, but that, we fear, will not be while the Democratic obstructionists are strong enough in congress to prevent Republicans putting intelligent effort in the management of the Navy.

THERE can be no reasonable doubt about the discretion of the action of the approaching Republican State Convention if the Republican voters in the several districts will take the trouble to attend the primaries and see that proper delegates are elected who will honestly and efficiently discharge their duty. The Republican rules have been changed to allow a popular expression, and the rank and file are themselves to blame if they do not take advantage of this privilege. Heretofore delegates were largely chosen by a packed committee, and the claim was made, with reasonable force, that they did not represent the party sentiment, but a factional demand. All this is now changed and every Republican is entitled to an expression of opinion as to who shall represent the district in the State Convention. The result must be accepted as the party expression. If any neglect or decline to accept this privilege, they should in all fairness abide by the result as the work of their acquiescence. If any wrong is done, no Republican who withholds his vote from the primaries can hold himself blameless. Now is the time for Republicans to do their duty and impress their opinions upon the party action.—Phil'a Press.

MOUNT MCGREGOR was supposed to be a secluded spot where General Grant could rest in quiet and peace. But, to the disgust of all right thinking people, he is beset by the vulgar curiosity of the neighborhood, and men and women who consider themselves respectable gather around Mr. Drexel's porch and stare at the dying man as if the cottage were a dime museum. Some way ought to be devised to keep the boors at a distance.

IN Memphis they are more peremptory in dealing with gamblers than the authorities are in larger Northern cities. The other day the municipal government of Memphis decided at 4 p. m. to put a stop to open gambling, and two hours later every gambling place was closed. In Louisville, also, war has been declared and a preliminary batch of fifteen petty gamblers was arrested one day last week.

Honest Action.

It is not that we object to Quay or Magee's candidate, but we do object to two old politicians coming forward and declaring to the honest yeomanry of the party that one or the other of them must be nominated for State Treasurer. The way such affairs should be managed is for the nominating convention to assemble and there earnestly and honestly discuss the merits of men who they believe would make capable and conscientious officials. This thing of one man traveling from one end to the other of the State "setting up" the nomination, making promises which will aid him in securing such a nomination and by a dozen such movements rendering certain what the outcome of the convention will be, is wrong, entirely wrong.

It is a mode of operation which will do for dishonest Democrats, but for Republicans—never.

We would rather see the convention continue in session a week and arrive at a decision only after hours of debate and investigation, than to have this "cut and dried" programme enacted.

Let honesty rise to the surface. Let no delegate go to the convention pledged in any other manner than to represent what he believes to be the interests of his constituents and to subserve the interests of his party in the State.

THERE can be no doubt that Spain will suffer severely from the cholera this year. The number of cases reported already reaches more than one thousand and the disease spreads every day. Not only are the dirtiness of the Spanish cities and the uncleanliness and poor nutrition of Spaniards excellent magnets for cholera, but also the superstition of the people and the ignorance of the doctors must insure a rich harvest for the epidemic. Even in Madrid, which ought to be the most enlightened and best governed city in Spain, the sanitary authorities are vehemently opposed by the inhabitants, to whom the idea of disinfecting and cleansing their bodies and their homes is a complete surprise and too repugnant and unnatural to be obeyed. The average Spanish doctor is about as skilful as Sangrado himself—in the rural districts the barber being also the surgeon. Apparently more than fifty per cent. of those attacked by the cholera have died thus far in Spain—a rate which tells clearly enough the hold which the epidemic has got.

FOUR hundred Mormon converts passed through New York last week for Utah. They were from Switzerland, Germany, Ireland, Scotland and England, and it took about eighteen months to recruit them. It was observed that after being in Castle Garden an hour or more one of the four wives of Lawrence Young, a grandson of Brigham Young, bestowed considerable attention upon one of the employes, and admited she was smitten with him. She was undecided about continuing her journey to Utah, but as the employe realized that bigamy was a crime in New York, he discouraged her remaining behind and promised to write to her.

NEW YORK gave a grand reception to the statue of Liberty Friday. It is evident, however, that some New York citizens do not know the difference between liberty and license; or how can the conduct of those gentlemanly members of the Produce Exchange be explained who pelted the Sixty-ninth Regiment with dough-balls and bad eggs—"merely for fun?"

IT seems that the Italian ministry are about to follow the example of their English brethren by resigning. Such places cannot be very much wanted in the effete European monarchies.

A GOOD man is wanted for minister to Spain, but no Mugwump need apply. The bond reads a good man.

THERE appears to be a regular panic among the people of parts of Spain, caused by the rapid increase in the number of deaths from cholera, which is now epidemic in many places in that country. It is hardly possible that we in the United States will escape a visit from the dread scourge, but, thanks to the precautionary sanitary measures adopted, its ravages must be greatly mitigated. Much good work has been done in anticipation of its coming, but much more is still necessary before our cities will be in proper condition to resist its inroads. Let every citizen see to it at once that his own premises are purified and kept clean, and the health authorities will be able to keep the streets and alleys in good shape. The matter is one of the utmost importance to all classes, and there should be no relaxation of effort until the coming of the autumn's frosts give assurance that all dangers from cholera are past.

PITTSBURG Commercial Gazette: It looks as though every county in Western Pennsylvania will instruct their delegates to support Hon. M. S. Quay for State treasurer. This is a a particularly gratifying evidence of public confidence, but it is not greater than he merits. Col. Quay is to-day the broadest man in the Republican party of our State, and should he be successful we predict that in Pennsylvania, as in New York, Ohio, Illinois and other great States, mere "machine" politics will have to go the rear and Republicans of ability and standing will come to the front.

"THE best element of the Democratic party in Mississippi" is declared to be very much offended by the President's action in demanding the resignation of the newly appointed Postmaster, Mead, of Copiah notoriety. Mead is vouched for as "one of the best Democrats in the State." Evidently, however, the President is willing to be forgiven, as there is no indication that the request for Mead's resignation is being urged.

WHEN the capitol at Albany, N. Y., is finished it will be the third costliest building in the world, as well as the most magnificent State capitol in the Union. Work has once more been resumed, with a force of 630 men instead of the 1,400 on the pay-rolls when the work was suspended in April. The advisory board has decreed that more than 650 men shall be employed during the rest of the year.

In this way some people and papers endeavor to make sport of those who exemplify in their daily lives the principles they profess. But surely those who are consistent to principle will have the sympathy and admiration of the good, while their defamers will merit only contempt.

SECRETARY BAYARD seems to have made a bad break in claiming that his revered grandfather's vote elected Jefferson President. It turns out upon investigation that that said grandfather not only did not vote for Jefferson at all, but that he broke his promise to do so after having sought and obtained assurance that his friends in office would not be removed in case of Jefferson's election.

WE are inclined to doubt the truth of the story that a member of the Illinois Legislature bargained to "kill" a certain bill for $2,500—$500 for himself and $2,000 for "the other fellows." Had it been charged that he demanded $2,000 for himself and $500 for the other fellows the story would have a much more probable sound.

MR. MALCOLM HAY is said to be killing himself with overwork. He should let up, for what shall it profit a man if he set up all the postoffice pins for the Democratic Presidental nomination and lose his own life before the convention is held?

Poetry.

AN OLD FAVORITE.

A BOARDING-HOUSE EXPERIENCE.

Hidden from my envious vision
Only by a thin partition
In another bedroom attic,
Small, but yet aristocratic,
Mistress of that dormitory,
Goddess of that upper story,
Is a girl, young, poor, untainted,
Fair as ever Raphael painted.

If on summer days you wander
To the fruit-stalls over yonder,
You will witness there how true 'tis
At the top the finest fruit is;
The high mountain's summit nearest
Whitest lies the snow, and clearest—
And the Queen-rose always blushes
On the top-spray of the bushes.
In no boarding house or dairy
Will the good thing ever vary,
Though it comes in different guises,
That it is the cream that rises!
Therefore—boldly I declare it—
Does my charmer grace a garret.

In the dim and early morning,
Ere the bell has given warning,
I can hear her bare feet patting
On her chamber's humble matting;
Hear the ice clink in the basin
That she laves her lovely face in,
And, by dint of studious guessing,
The slight bustle of her dressing.
Then at evening I can hear her
Place her lamp beneath her mirror,
And remove the combs confining
Her soft hair in bandeaux shining.
Then I list, a moment later,
Till I hear her tiny gaiter,
Fitting for its fair deposit,
Tossed into the corner closet.
Oft I hear her silvery laughter
Echoing from the cobwebbed rafter,
As, worn out with silence lonely,
Talks she with her sweet self only;
And it minds me of a swallow
In the balmy eves that follow
June's sweet month of leafy glory,
Twittering many a sweet love-story—
Soft, and tender, and impassioned,
From the eaves' nest it has fashioned.

Down the long stairs, tripping lightly
With elastic motion sprightly,
Some light measure humming gayly,
To her work she passes daily;
While I, from my friendly shutter,
Watch her garments' playful flutter
Till, unmindful of my being,
She has vanished from my seeing.

Though, by hurrying or belating,
Quickened steps or patient waiting,
Often have I shrewdly planned it—
Slyly, lest she understand it—
To go down as she's ascending,
Some necessity pretending,
Not one word has passed between us;
Yet, as evening wai s for Venus,
Wait I for my pretty neighbor's
Coming homeward from her labors.

Loveliest of the landlord's tenants,
Still I sit here doing penance;
Waiting for thee, graceful comer,
As the cold earth waits for summer,
Hist! my heart's keen understanding
Hears her footfall on the landing.
She is coming, she is coming,
Some gay ballad softly humming.
Gone—into that dormitory—
Shut up like a morning-glory;
Prisoned in that lonesome cloister
Like a pearl within an oyster.

Love me, love, but breathe it low,
Soft as summer weather;
If you love me, tell me so,
As we sit together.
Sweet and still as roses blow—
Love me, love, but breath it low.

Tell me only with your eyes,
Words are cheap as water;
If you love me, looks and sighs
Tell my mother's daughter
More than all the world may know—
Love me, love, and breathe it low.

Words for others, storm and snow,
Wind and changeful weather—
Let the shallow waters flow
Foaming on together;
But love is still and deep, and oh!
Love me, love, but breathe it low.

Our Story Teller.

A Heart Sketch.

She came to our far-away, quiet mountain-flanked village, in early Summer, and stopping first at the hotel, she registered her name as Kate Burbank, of New York. She might have been two and twenty—not older than that—and was very pretty. No—pretty is not the word. She was beautiful, with that style of beauty which belongs to true, living womanhood. Examine her closely, and you could discover nothing grand or regal about her. She was easy, affable and very pleasant, with dimples in her cheeks and chin, about which bright smiles lurked most alluringly; and, furthermore, she was not regal at all in stature, being rather below the medium height of women. And yet when she walked away alone, in the fresh, bracing air, you would declare there was something regal about her after all.

But she did not remain long at the hotel. She brought letters of recommendation to the rector of our parish, and was soon admitted a member of his family. To him she told the story of her life. She was an orphan, without brother or sister. She possessed property enough to support her, in an humble way, until she could turn her hand to some profitable and pleasant employment. She had friends ready and willing to help her, but she preferred to be independent.

At the end of a fortnight, Mr. Edgarton, the rector, had made up his mind what profession Miss Burbank should follow. She should be a teacher of music. Her skill at the piano was a marvel, and her voice was sweetest melody. During those two weeks she had become a source of sunshine in the household, and all had come to love her. She romped and played with the children, 'earing over hill and dale with bounding glee; she sang and played not only for the family, but for favored visitors when they asked it; and when opportunity offered, she could sit in the rector's study, and converse with an understanding and erudition that surprised him.

Toward the end of July the rector's nephew, Arthur Grafton, came on a visit. He had graduated at college, had studied law and had been admitted to the bar, and, now, before commencing practice, he had come to the mountain village for recreation. He was four-and-twenty years of age, tall, strong and robust, the very picture of manly health and beauty. And his beauty was of the vigorous kind, with heart and soul in it. His brown curls shook over his high, fair forehead when he laughed, and his laugh was contagious. At all events, Kate Burbank found it so, and a new enjoyment was added to her life.

And how about Arthur Grafton's life. Did he find a new enjoyment in this unexpected inmate of the rectory? Somehow Kate gradually ceased romping with the children, and walked with Arthur instead. He had been a leading oarsman at college, and now he cleaned up and cushioned an old boat belonging to a neighbor, and rowed Kate over the silvery bosom of our Lake of the Clouds. And then the evenings. What melody floated out upon the listening ears that gathered around. Arthur was a superb singer, with a cultivated baritone voice, and Kate made such music as had never been heard in our village before.

Of course all this could tend but one way, and the good rector saw at a very early period whther that way would lead. He had a strong love for his dead sister's child, and was anxious that his opening manhood should not be clouded. To this end he wrote to a friend in New York in whom he had entire confidence, and from whom one of the young lady's letters of introduction had come, stating frankly the circumstances, and asking for information touching Miss Burbank's antecedents. He received an answer, by due course of mail, that the lady in question was one whom any man, with courage for the real work of life, might be proud to gain for a wife.

With this Mr. Edgarton was content and henceforth he allowed matters to take their own course.

Certainly Arthur Grafton had never before met a woman to him like this woman. Strong and intellectual as he was there was no part of his life into which she could not enter with heart and soul. She joined him in his sports, gay and frolicsome, she joined him in his sylvan rambles, dwelling fondly on the poetic side of nature; she discussed with him understandingly subjects and authors which he had deemed understood only by college graduates; and when it came to the graver things of life—religion, and all the duties of faith, hope and charity springing therefrom—she became almost as one inspired. His was a religion of the heart, pure and undefiled.

No wonder Arthur loved her. No wonder he came almost to worship her. Was it reserved for him to gain this treasure for a lifetime? He would solve the problem as soon as he could see his way clear. He wanted to be sure that she cared for him first.

Cared for him! If he could have known how truly and fondly the beautiful girl loved him, earth would have been to him a heaven. And why should she not love him? Stalwart and strong, true and brave, healthful and handsome and tender and kind, he was her beau ideal of true manhood—her knight, her prince.

How bright and joyous were the days, how sweet and enjoyable were the evenings! Arthur resolved that he would know his fate. He looked the matter squarely in the face, and made his calculations. In September he was to enter his office in New York, and influential friends had promised to assist him in business. He knew he should succeed. Within a year he would be able to support a wife. If Kate would have him, and wait a year he could work with a will. He would speak before another night shut in on him.

Before that night came Arthur and Kate, in their rambling, met Charles Dabney of New York. Dabney had been Arthur's classmate in college. Kate's hand trembled on her companion's arm, and as he advanced to speak with his friend she turned away and waited for him until he came back.

"Dear old Charley!" he said. "We were chums in College. I must run over to the hotel and see him after tea.

A cloud was for the time upon the beautiful face—a cloud of anxiety and unrest—but she soon banished it, and was as bright as before.

After tea Arthur went over to the hotel as he had promised. A brief interchange of fraternal greetings, and then Dabney burst forth:

"Look here, old fellow, how in the name of wonder did you manage to get the heiress under your wing?"

"The heiress?" repeated Arthur, wonderingly.

"Aye—Miss Cornelissen—the lady you were with this afternoon. She didn't recognize me, though I am sure she knew me."

"Miss Cornelissen!" echoed our hero, "What do you mean, Charley? You have mistaken the person."

"What do you mean, Arthur? Bless my soul! one is not likely to forget that beautiful face, nor to confound another with it."

"The lady you saw in my company this afternoon was Miss Burbank, of New York, an orphan, whom friends recommended to my uncle, the rector."

Charles Dabney drew a long breath, and then whistled.

"Forgive me, Arty. Perhaps I've put my foot in it; but it can't be helped now. I will tell you the truth, and you can govern yourself accordingly. It may be well that you should be on your guard. I remember now the lady has a middle name. Her mother's maiden name was Burbank. Miss Kate Burbank Cornelissen was the lady I saw upon your arm. Her father was Hendrick Cornelissen, the old East India trader and ship-owner, who died four years ago, leaving his only child heiress to three millions. A year ago she came in full possession, and she has fled to this secluded nook to escape the sycophants and noodles that beset her on every hand. I understand it now. Goodness, gracious! Just to think of it old fellow. A girl like that, sole mistress of three million dollars! And be sure it's safely invested, every dollar of it!"

Arthur Grafton returned to the rectory in a daze. He knew that Dabney had told him the truth. Many things were to him now easy of understanding which had before been misty and hidden. On reaching the house he professed to have a headache, and he retired early to his chamber. He was an upright and honorable man, and when he began to reflect and consider, he was guided mainly by his sense of right and justice, with manly independence.

The name of Cornelissen was very familiar. It had been Hendrick Cornelissen who had established and richly endowed a professorhip in the college at which he had graduated. And he was aware that among all the wealthy descendants of the old patrons none had clearer titles to aristocratic rank than had this same family.

Then how, in honor, could he offer his hand to the inheritor of his patron's millions—he, with not a dollar in the world he could call his own—for he was owing for tuition rather more than he possessed of money—how could he do it? He could not! He would not!

On the following morning, as Kate looked out from her chamber window, she saw Arthur walking in the garden. His step was slow and dragging, his head was bent, and his hands were folded behind. Certainly he looked far from happy. When she came down into the little sitting-room, where the piano was, she found the rector and his wife there, looking strangely uncomfortable and perplexed.

"Something has happened—we don't know what," said Mr. Edgarton, in answer to her earnest questioning. "Arthur is going back to New York at once—he says to-day."

"But I thought he was to stay until September."

"So he had planned, but something has changed him."

A great weight sank upon Kate's heart, and a choking was in her throat. She turned away and thought. The truth was not long in coming to her! Arthur had discovered her secret and was afraid of her. But, had she gained his heart? And, if so, should she lose him? Should she, without one struggle, surrender the only promise of joy, true and pure, that had entered into her life since her father died?

Arthur Grafton, standing beneath a drooping elm, himself also drooping, felt a light touch upon the arm. He turned and looked into the sweet, earnest face of the beautiful being who had been occupying all his thoughts.

"Arthur, your uncle tells me that you think of leaving us." She spoke with a calmness that cost her a mighty effort.

"Yes," he answered, in a voice that sounded hollow and distant.

She stood back and looked at him with prayerful earnestness.

"Arthur, will you answer me a few questions, truly and frankly?"

"Yes."

"If you had not met Charles Dabney yesterday the thought of leaving us to-day would not have entered your mind?"

He hesitated and considered. Surely it would be honorable to answer with the simple truth.

"It would not," he said.

"Charles Dabney told you who my father was?"

"Yes."

"And that my family name was Cornelissen?"

"Yes."

"And he told you that I was very wealthy in the possession of money?"

"Yes."

"But he did not tell you that I had been poor, very poor, in all that can give promise of true and enduring blessings in life."

"Arthur, in the great city I was hunted for my wealth. I grew sick and tired of the dreadful infliction, and resolved to escape into a purer atmosphere, and, if possible, leave all trace of my poor wealth behind me. Good friends, fully appreciating my purpose, assisted me.

"Dropping my well known family name I came hither, recommended chiefly by one who had been your uncle's college mate in other years. By and by you came to share the life with me. Never mind how I discovered it, but the knowledge came to me that you were a true and noble man. And soon—soon—I believed that you loved me. My heart bounded with a strange gladness when I thought that a true, strong and generous man had fallen in love with poor, simple Kate Burbank. Can you doubt whither my own heart was tending?

"Arthur, I love you with my whole heart—my first and only love. If you love me as I had hoped, you shall not go away from me. I will not lose my brightness of life for a few honest words. I can be brave in this trying hour. Dear Arthur, will you take me for your wife, to love me while life is ours?"

Her arms were outstretched, and in a moment more she was gathered in the strong, sheltering embrace of a man who could not speak for very joy.

The bright rays of the morning sun, slanting through the tree tops and lighting up ten thousand sprays with glittering, dewy diamonds, threw a golden halo about the twain, still clasped in fond embrace. The birds sang as it seemed they had never sung before, and all nature was surely in harmony with the infinite love that had dropped its blessed mantle upon the brave woman and her promised husband.

Important Political History.

Secretary Bayard, in his recent address in Columbia, Mo., related that in the electoral contest of 1801, when the Jefferson-Burr presidential struggle was thrown into the House, Mr. Bayard's grandfather, a Federalist, holding Delaware's vote in his hand, took counsel of Alex. Hamilton, "and it was the counsel that the Union was worth preserving. The Federalist from Delaware, instructed by Alexander Hamilton, cast his vote for Thomas Jefferson." Edward Stanwood, writing in the Boston Transcript, recalls the fact that the elder Bayard, nevertheless, voted 35 times for Burr, for President. He further recalls some interesting phases of the eventful history of that period:

Alexander Hamilton did oppose the Federal support of Burr, but he did so immediately upon its being discovered that there was a tie between Jefferson and Burr. This is no place to discuss the question whether the Federalists acted wisely in rejecting Hamilton's advice, but reject it they did. In 19 ballotings on the 11th of February, 1801, 9, on the 12th, 1 on the 13th, 4 on the 14th, 1 on the 15th, and 1 on the 16th—35 in all—49 Federalists voted for Mr. Burr. Mr. Bayard's vote, which was the whole vote of the State of Delaware, was given to Burr on every one of these occasions.

There were then 16 States in the Union, and a majority of the whole—nine States—was necessary to a choice. Mr. Jefferson had eight States on each of these ballots, Burr had six, and the votes of Maryland and Vermont, being each equally divided, were given to neither candidate. If on either of these ballots Mr. Bayard had "obeyed Hamilton's counsel" he would have voted for and elected Mr. Jefferson; but he did not.

Then came the thirty-sixth ballot. It was taken on the 17th of Feb., immediately after the thirty-fifth ballot. Mr. Jefferson was elected, and how? A certain number of Federalists simply withheld their votes—five from South Carolina, four from Maryland, one from Vermont, and one—Mr. Bayard—from Delaware. The effect of this action was to permit the Republicans from Maryland and Vermont to cast the votes of those States for Mr. Jefferson, giving him 10 States and electing him, while the votes of South Carolina and Delaware were cast blank.

So it is not true that "the Federalist from Delaware, instructed by Alexander Hamilton, cast his vote for Thomas Jefferson." Moreover, unless the Maryland and Vermont Federalists had withdrawn their votes, the change made by Mr. Bayard—from voting for Burr to not voting at all—would have had no effect, since a blank vote was a vote against Jefferson.

Births and Deaths in the White House.

One of Thomas Jefferson's grandchildren was born in the White House, one of Tyler's and three of Andrew Jackson's. They were the children of Andrew Jackson Donaldson, the nephew and adopted son of Jackson. Gen. Grant's granddaughter, Col. Fred Grant's daughter, was born in the White House. Gen. W. H. Harrison, Gen. Zachary Taylor and Abraham Lincoln were buried from there. Garfield was buried from the rotunda of the Capitol. One of President Lincoln's children died in the White House. So did Mrs. Grant's father, Col. Fred Dent. There have been more marriages than deaths in the White House. The first marriage was that of Miss Todd, a niece of Mrs. Madison, in 1810, the groom being a Virginia Congressman, John G. Jackson. The next marriage had for its contracting parties the daughter of President Monroe and Mr. Gouverneur, of New York. John Adams, the son of John Quincy Adams, married his cousin, Miss Kelley, in the White House in 1826. The feast, it is said, lasted an entire week. Next came the wedding of Mr. Panquet and Miss Lewis, which was soon followed by the marriage of Miss Tyler and Mr. Waller, both of Virginia. The last wedding in the White House was that of Miss Nellie Grant and Mr. Algernon Sartoris. President Tyler proposed to his second wife, Miss Gardiner, in the White House. The records show but three christenings in the White House—Mrs. Wilcox, about eighty years ago; that of Julia, the daughter of Col. Fred Grant, and the youngest daughter of President Hayes. In Grant's term there was a wedding, a birth, a christening and a death in the White House.

A Little Learning Serves a Tramp.

New York Journal.

"There," said a woman to a tramp "is a nice dinner, but I shall expect you to saw a little wood for it."

"Certainly, madam," politely replied the tramp attacking the dinner with both hands, "but you will pardon me, I trust, if I venture to correct your English."

"My what?"

"Your English. Some modern authorities claim that grammar is played out. I know better. The word 'saw' is a verb in this case, singular number and imperfect tense You can not say, 'I shall expect you to saw wood.' 'I shall expect you to see wood' is correct. If you will indicate the pile to me I will now look at it as I pass out."

Pleasant Summer Trips.

From the New York Times, June 7, 1885.

With the first hot breath of summer come recollections of broad highways, of hard sand, stretches of billowy ocean, the roar of surges, the cooling breath of Neptune, the plash of the waves, the salty air from the wide sweeping sea, and the countless other delights of life on the sea coast. And nature, ever kindly, has placed within easy reaching distance a sea coast for the pleasure of mankind and womankind in their hours of leisure, and which man has improved until it seems perfection. From Sandy Hook to Cape May the Atlantic Ocean dashes upon a coast of the most variable but always beautiful description. Years ago this was for the most part a desolate shore, but to-day it blossoms like the rose, and attracts to it the tired dwellers in cities who have a day, a week or a month of relaxation. At one end of this shining strip of sand lies Long Branch, and at the other Cape May, while between them are located numerous other resorts, all worthy of attention, and each of which has its champions among summer tourists.

The most important of the intermediate resorts is Atlantic City. It has the distiction of being strikingly unlike all other seaside resorts. It reminds one of a striking character in "Uncle Tom's Cabin," a young woman who "just growed." Atlantic City wasn't planned. It jumped into existence apparently of its own accord, and has seemingly made a hit. It is practically an island, for it is separated from the main land by miles of salt marshes. It is twenty miles nearer to Philadelphia than any other New Jersey resort, and perhaps for this reason it is the Mecca of Philadelphians and of people who live hundreds of miles from that city. Every one in Pennsylvania has heard of Atlantic City, and when the denizen of the rural districts takes a vacation, and reaches Philadelphia, his first thought is to get out of it and reach Atlantic city as quickly as possible. The first thing to do is to find a hotel, and, with a guide, this is not difficult—they are numerous. There are, beside the hotels, cottages without number and private boarding houses beyond count. Atlantic City has beyond doubt made a hit, for it is always crowded in summer with a vast concourse of people drawn from every walk of life. The facilities for reaching Atlantic City are favorable. The distance from New York via Phil'a. is 150 miles by rail, and is covered in about four hours by the Pennsylvania Railroad and its seashore connections. All kinds of fish abound in its waters, and salt water birds are numerous in its immediate vicinity. Its even temperature makes it a healthful resort, and this perhaps helps to account for the fact that it is patronized by the rich as well as the poor. Its board walk is a joy forever, if not a thing of beauty. Bathing and swimming is indulged in to an unlimited extent. On Sundays the crowd is immense. On week-days it is also immense. Atlantic City has nothing to complain of. The present season promises to eclipse all previous seasons in the matter of attendance, and the natives are making desperate efforts to provide for the rush that they may make all the hay possible while the sun remains above the horizon. North and South Atlantic Cities are adjuncts to the parent town, and are making big strides to catch up. Between Atlantic City and Cape May are a number of other pleasant and flourishing resorts, such as Ocean City, Sea Isle City, and Sewell's Point, but in comparison with Cape May these are but as the lowly snow-drop to the full-blown rose. It has been said that the West Jersey Railroad carries the traveler through a desert before it finally deposits him at Cape May, but if so does not the journey enhance the attractions of the queen of watering places? Even a sight of it has a soothing influence to the most dissatisfied, and there seems to be some ground for the statement that had the lotus eaters discovered Cape May they would have pitched their tents there in preference to any other spot on the globe. There is nothing ephemeral about Cape May. Away back in 1675 it boasted of a Baptist church, and surely if there was a church there it must have had a congregation. This, of itself, is a source of gratification to the residents of the beautiful city on the sea, a city which can boast of a population the year round, with great hotels, magnificent private residences, and countless other advantages, and a life all its own. Nothing, apparently, can shake its popularity. Built upon a strip of upland, where the waters of bay and ocean meet, it has a grand view of the Atlantic. Its beach is broad and smooth, and it is considered the grandest bathing grounds on the coast. The dangerous undertow that makes bathing at some points insecure is here unknown and perfect safety seems to reign over the waves that lave its silver sands. Its streets are broad and level and all its structures have an air of solidity and an absence of newness that is refreshing of itself. An unobstructed view of the ocean is obtained from one end to the other of the magnificent boulevard that runs parallel with the ocean for a distance of five miles Its beach is its glory, and its new iron pier the pride of its people. It is as smooth as a billiard table. Its sky is always blue and its sun is seldom hidden. Its bathing facilities are glorious and are taken advantage of to the full. Noon is the favorite hour for this diversion, and thousands of both sexes, all in costumes more or less unique and striking, then take their dip in view of other and admiring or amused thousands. Cape May's hotels are quite as famous as the city itself. During the summer season, from June till September, Cape May's accommodations, extensive as they are, are taxed to the utmost. Early as it is the indications are that the present season will push its predecessors very hard in an effort to beat the record.

At the extreme southern end of New Jersey is situated Cape May Point. Except on the northeast side it is surrounded by the Atlantic Ocean and Delaware Bay. Although it is but two miles distant from Cape May it is connected with that resort by rail, and the residents of the two points are generally equally well acquainted with both stamping grounds. Like Spring Lake, Cape May Point possesses a fresh water lake, which is fed by cool and sparkling springs. The lake is situated within a few hundred feet of the Atlantic's salty-breakers. Its hotels are excellent, and its guests are always sure of finding a plentiful supply of amusement in bathing, sailing, fishing, and driving.

A Bursted Bubble.

'Twas across the velvety meadow, where the golden blossom of the dandelion bestudded the green even as the silvery stars at night bespangle the blue dome of high Heaven. The two were walking in the broad sunshine, she comely and shy, he stately and impressive.

"Do you know, Alice," he said, with the utmost mellowness, "why you are like the dandelion blossoms about us?"

"Not unless it is because there are so many others like me."

"Oh, now, how unkind of you to misunderstand. It is because you are so like pure gold."

"Perhaps it is because pa is rich," said she quietly, and the young man's dream of happiness was like a bursted bubble—gone, no one know where.—Hartford Post.

A CASE of yellow fever in New Orleans, the continuance of fever at Plymouth and Sugar Notch, of diphtheria in the southwestern part of the State and of diseases incidental to hot weather in the large cities, make the necessity of improved drainage, better water and greater cleanliness more imperative than ever. Besides, the cholera is increasing in Spain, and it may make a swift summer ocean passage to America.

Medical, Etc.

Bulwer Lytton's Bridge.

Where it Touches the Shores and the Great Columns in Midstream.

"What a beautiful bridge between old age and childhood is religion. How intuitively the child begins with prayer and worship on entering life, and how intuitively, on quitting life, the old man turns back to prayer and worship, putting himself again side by side with the infant," remarks Sir E. Bulwer Lytton, in his "Strange Story."

Yes, but between its distant abutments the bridge of life has many high and awful arches through which the wild waters dash and roar in wrath and desolation. Prayer and worship alone do not sustain these. Nature's solid rock must lie unshaken beneath, and human art and skill must rear and solidify the structure overhead. God's will is best exemplified in the laws He has made for the creatures whom He has placed under their control. Neither the child's trustful "Our Father," nor the old man's "Forget me not in the midst of mine infirmities," will alter this by the weight of a single grain.

Science and art first—then faith and prayer—is the order of heaven itself. Divinity heals through its agents, and those agents are the discoveries of man; not in the vague announcements of prophets or seers. Is life a burden to you? Does time drag? Is your power to cope with life's problems and duties weakened? You are not well. Your blood is sluggish and tainted, perhaps; or some important organ is torpid or overworked. This fact may have taken the form of dyspepsia, rheumatism, gout, malaria, pains in the stomach, chronic headache, or any of a dozen other ills. PARKER'S TONIC will invigorate you, as fresh air invigorates those who have been shut up in damp, fetid cells. It is powerful, pure, delicious, scientific, safe—the keystone of the central arch of the bridge of life.

THE GROWL OF A PESSIMIST.

The world is growing better every day;
This fact is plain, so hopeful people say

It may be, but the keen observer sees
That pepper still is largely made of peas.

The pump still aids to swell the milk supply,
And "prime old port" we get from logwood dye.

The bottom of the strawberry box draws near
And nearer to the top each passing year.

The finest apples, cherry cheeked and round,
Still at the top of apple bar'l's are found.

(Ah, who would dream of beholding such a show,
So many rotten ones were hid below!)

"Pure dairy butter;" much of this, I ween,
Is still composed of oleomargarine.

The world is growing better, people say—
New rogueries are developing every day.

The world is as 't has been since it began:
Man studies still to cheat his fellow man.

Election of Teachers.

At a special meeting of the school board, Friday evening, teachers were elected to fill the positions in the stone building. The following is the corps of teachers as at present constituted:

Principal, David M. Lieb; Grade No. 2, Miss Sallie Meek; No. 3, Miss Hewes; No. 4, Miss Lizzie Shortlidge; No. 5, Miss Carrie Humes; No. 6, Miss Bella Rankin; No. 7, Miss Annie McAffery; No. 8, Miss Clara Strickland; No. 9, Miss Kate Powers; No. 10, Miss Carrie Weaver.

No. 9 was formerly taught by Miss McGinley, who did not apply for a school this year. Miss Powers was promoted from No. 10 to No. 9 and Miss Carrie Weaver, who was a graduate of the High School this year, was elected to No. 10.

Teachers for the High School will be elected at the next regular meeting unless it is considered desirable to call another special meeting for that purpose.

The school tax for this year will be the same as that of last year.

Who Was the Young Lady?

The Tyrone correspondent of the Altoona Times, this morning contained the following interesting item:

A young lady from Chicago, on her way to Bellefonte, left her pocketbook lie on the desk of the baggage agent at Tyrone. After she left the book was discovered and returned to the owner, who was found taking supper at the Ward House. She hadn't missed it yet and therefore was saved considerable annoyance.

—The lawn sprinkler is in use in all parts of the town.

It will not do to take a stand in the temperance reform for any one of work to the exclusion or neglect of others. It will not fare well with you to say, "I believe in work for the children. This is true fundamental reform and this only will I do." You may bring up your boy from infancy to youth on the temperance catechism and the pledge, with all the collateral instruction of the Band of Hope and the temperance teaching of the Sunday school—but if he fall ill, a physician will give him alcohol, and all your instruction will avail little to prevent his acquiescence in the dictum of "science falsely so called." If he begins the study of medicine for himself, his class instructor will undo all your teaching as to the needlessness of alcohol as a remedial agent. If he goes to college, his professor may be a smoker, and your idealistic precepts of manliness will vanish from memory before the stronger example. If he be thrown among his so-called betters anywhere with drink as an element of congeniality, you cannot be sure that the open pit of the licensed saloon will not finally engulf him. True temperance work is done in the home, in the church, in the Sunday school, the kindergarten the day school, the academy, the college, the ship, the barracks, the markets, the courts, the ballot box. Let no one despise this or that phase of effort. Each one is a link in the chain that is to bind the great dragon, Intemperance, and if you forbid the forging of one, you weaken the strength of all.

She Wanted Water.

"Oh, dear, ma," said she, affectionately, "if we could only go to Saratoga this year, and enjoy the delightful sea breeze and bathing."

"Rosalind," replied that austere person, "you haven't half read your guide-books yet. But if all you want is the splashing sound of water I'll introduce you to my old blue washtub any Monday."

"Now, ma, how awfully vulgar you grow," and she touched the piano keys with an æsthetic, tender touch, but the old machine was just as much out of tune as ever.

If it be true, as reported, that Queen Victoria favors a renewal of the Soudan campaign, the holding on to Egypt, the settlement of the Afghan difficulty on the Granville-Geirs agreement, an alliance with Germany, friendship with Turkey and the cold shoulder to France, it would go to show that the old lady is a Jingo of the Jingoes, and intends to have some say as to how affairs shall be run in her own dominions.

BILIOUSNESS.

Bilious symptoms invariably arise from indigestion, such as furred tongue, vomiting of bile, giddiness, sick headache, irregular bowels. The liver secretes the bile and acts like a filter or sieve, to cleanse impurities of the blood. By irregularity in its action or suspensions of its functions, the bile is liable to overflow into the blood, causing jaundice, sallow complexion, yellow eyes, bilious diarrhœa, a languid, weary feeling and many other distressing symptoms. Biliousness may be properly termed an affection of the liver, and can be thoroughly cured by the grand regulator of the liver and biliary organs, BURDOCK BLOOD BITTERS. Act upon the stomach, bowels and liver, making healthy bile and pure blood, and opens the culverts and sluiceways for the outlet of disease. Sold everywhere and guaranteed to cure.

UNFERMENTED GRAPE JUICE,
Used in the Principal Churches for Communion.
Excellent for Females, Weakly Persons and the Aged.

ADOPTED IN HOSPITALS AS THE BEST.

Speer's Port Grape Wine
FOUR YEARS OLD.

THIS CELEBRATED WINE is the pure juice of the dead ripe Oporto Grape, raised in Speer's vineyards. Its invaluable

Tonic and Strengthening Properties

are unsurpassed by any other Wine. Being produced under Mr. Speer's own personal supervision, its purity and genuineness are guaranteed by the principal Hospitals and Boards of Health who have examined it. The youngest child may partake of it and the weakest invalid use it to advantage. It is particularly beneficial to the aged and debilitated, and suited to the various ailments that affect the weaker sex.

It is in every respect A WINE TO BE RELIED ON.

Speer's Unfermented Grape Juice.

It is the juice of the Oporto Grapes, preserved in its natural, fresh, sweet state as it runs from the press by fumigation, thereby destroying the exciter of fermentation. It is perfectly pure, free from spirits and will keep in any climate.

Speer's Burgundy.

Is a dark rich medium Dry Wine, used by the wealthy classes as a Table or Dinner Wine, and by physicians in cases where a dry wine instead of a sweet port is desired.

Speer's (Socialte) Claret.

Is held in high estimation for its richness as a Dry Table Wine, especially suited for dinner use.

Speer's P. J. Sherry.

Is a Wine of superior character, and partakes of the rich qualities of the grape from which it is made.

Speer's P. J. Brandy.

IS A PURE distillation from the grape, and stands unrivaled in this country for medicinal purposes.

It has a peculiar flavor, similar to that of the grapes from which it is distilled.

See that the signature of ALFRED SPEER, Passaic, N. J., is over the cork of each bottle.

England's Latest Cabinet.

LONDON, June 23.—The queen has confirmed Lord Salisbury's cabinet. The Irish secretary portfolio was offered to five others and declined before Sir William Hart-Dyke accepted it. There are symptoms already that the radicals will do their utmost to harrass the conservatives.

The following is a list of the new cabinet:

Prime Minister and Secretary for Foreign Affairs, the Marquis of Salisbury.

First Lord of the Treasury, Sir Stafford Northcote.

Chancellor of the Exchequer, Sir Michael F. Hicks-Beach.

Lord High Chancellor, Sir Hardinge Gifford.

Lord President of the Council, Viscount Cranbrook.

Lord Privy Seal, the Earl of Harroby.

Secretary for the Home Department, Sir Richard Ashton Cross.

Secretary for the Colonial Department, Colonel Frederick Stanley.

Secretary for War, Rt. Hon. Wm. Henry Smith.

Secretary of State for India—Lord Randolph Churchill.

First Lord of the Admiralty—Lord George Hamilton.

President of the Local Government Board—Arthur James Balfour.

President of the Board of Trade—The Duke of Richmond and Gordon.

Vice President of the Council—Hon. Edward Stanhope.

Lord Lieutenant of Ireland—The Earl of Carnarvon.

Lord Chancellor of Ireland—Rt. Hon. Edward Gibson.

Gets Ten Years.

NEW YORK, June 23.—Charles A. Buddensiek, the builder whose row of buildings on West Sixty-second street fell in a heap on April 13th and caused the death of Louis Walter, a framer at work on the buildings, and who was recently convicted of manslaughter in the second degree, was to-day sentenced by Recorder Smith to ten years' imprisonment and to pay a fine of $500.

On the Mountain.

MT. MCGREGOR, June 23.—Last night was a cold one on the mountain. At midnight the mercury was down to 48° and it marked 44° at 6 o'clock this morning. Although not called, Dr. Douglass several times during the night went to the sick room to assure himself that General Grant was not exposed and contracting cold. Between 5 and 6 o'clock the doctor treated the general's throat, after which he spoke to the physician in quite a clear voice, and said: "I have had a good night. I slept well and feel rested now." He gained some sleep between that time and 9 o'clock, when his throat was again attended to and food was given. The general again dozed off.

After resting awhile General Grant took up his writing pad and began writing at the point where his dictation had stopped. Soon after he had finished writing Dr. Douglass came in and made some remarks on the work the general had done, and the general produced his little conversation pad which he handed to the physician, after having written as follows: "I have now dictated and written out all the notes I had prepared and now I shall not have that on my mind any more." The general soon after went to his room and at 6 o'clock was asleep. The doctor did not apprehend any reaction during the night and said he noticed no evidence of fatigue.

A Cyclone and Its Work.

INDEPENDENCE, Mo., June 22.—A cyclone visited the northeastern portion of this county on Saturday night. At the town of Sibley, on the river, a number of houses were destroyed, but the extent of the ruin is not yet fully known. Large trees and much grain, the latter nearly ready for the sickle were destroyed. In the vicinity of Leavenworth, Kansas, houses and barns were badly damaged. The residence of John Huckings, about twelve miles from Leavenworth, was blown to atoms and the timbers scattered for more than a mile. The family, consisting of five persons, was scattered about the yard in all directions, and though all were hurt more or less, none were killed.

SHERBROOKE, Dakota, June 22.—Every building in town was blown over on Saturday except the county building, which was held down by the safe. No one was hurt.

KANSAS CITY, June 22.—The storm of Saturday was very severe in this vicin[illegible] was killed at Glasgow and the business portion of the town was almost destroyed.

An Aeronaut's Terrible Death.

CHARLESTON, W. Va., June 19.—A shocking accident occurred at the circus grounds this afternoon just prior to the opening performance of Richards & Leon's circus. Among the outdoor attractions was a balloon ascension. Just as the ropes holding the balloon were cast off, the hot-air stove used in inflating it was overturned, and set the balloon on fire. The burning balloon shot up into the air at a rapid rate, with William Patterson, the aeronaut, in the basket. When a short distance up the crowd yelled "Jump!" but he did not heed the advice, and after going several hundred feet up the balloon collapsed, and Patterson fell to the earth a lifeless mass of humanity. Patterson was 22 years old, and lived in Wellsville, Ohio, where he leaves a widow and family. It was his first ascension. The balloon was totally consumed.

Eloping with Another Man.

MITCHELL, Dak., June 21.—Miss Nettie Barnard came to this pla e from Manchester, Iowa, in the spring of 1882. She was a charming young lady and a talented vocalist. Among her suitors was a prominent young lawyer of this place. They became engaged, and the intended husband built an elegant residence and furnished it throughout to the lady's liking. On the eve of the day fixed for the wedding the girl fled to the Green Mountains of Vermont with Mark Ward of Kimball, a member of the last Dakota Legislature. The elopement was arranged with the knowledge and consent of the young lady's parents, who seem to have preferred a legislator to a lawyer for a son-in-law.

An Infernal Machine.

CHAMBERSBURG, June 19.—Just as one or two gentlemen were leaving the Herald office last night, a box addressed to one of them was found near the door leading to the composing-room. It was opened and found to contain a quantity of sawdust saturated with kerosene and on top a dozen percussion matches firmly fixed between two pieces of rich pine with the heads in close juxtaposition, so that if one caught all would go and set fire to the saturated sawdust. Below this highly inflammable material was a piece of brass tubing with a fuse affixed, both ends being cemented and tightly closed.

The Washington Monument Repaired.

WASHINGTON, June 19.—The broken roof stone of the Washington Monument was placed in position to-day without difficulty. Ropes were stretched around the top of the monument, and by driving wedges between them and the solid masonry and gently tapping the broken stone with a maul it was pressed into place, and fitted nicely. This afternoon three holes were drilled through the broken piece, and it was firmly bolted in place. The new electrical apparatus will be here on Monday, and the entire work of repair will be completed on Wednesday.

The Barn and Farmer Burned.

MENOMINE, Mich., June 22.—Wm. A. McIntosh, a farmer living a few miles back of Florence, Mich., last evening went to his barn to feed his stock. On entering the barn the lamp which he carried exploded, setting fire to the barn, which, with five head of cattle, was burned, and McIntosh was so severely burned that his life is despaired of. A hired girl who attempted to save a pet lamb was also seriously burned.

The Grand Army National Encampment.

PORTLAND, Me., June 22.—Just before noon to-day heavy showers fell and the present indications favor a cloudy day, with occasional showers. Every available tent in camp U. S. Grant has been pitched and such members of the Grand Army as have arrived have been assigned to their quarters. Very few delegates have come in this morning, but it is anticipated that a great number will arrive this afternoon and evening. The streets are full of visitors, many of whom have been here for several days, and the Grand Army uniform is everywhere conspicuous. It looks though as if the numbers coming had been over estimated. For to-morrow 20,000 veterans and 20,000 strangers would now seem to be a liberal estimate.

A Building Wrecked by Dynamite.

ROCKPORT, Ind., June 21.—Newtonville, situated about twelve miles from this place, was thrown into a wild state of excitement between eleven and twelve o'clock last night by the report of a terrible explosion. It was soon learned that Sutton & Powell's general store, in which is also the Post Office, was the scene of the explosion. It was found to be terribly demolished, not a single timber being in a full piece, but smashed and scattered in all directions for a distance of one hundred and fifty feet. Merchandise, etc., were also scattered all over town. The cause of the explosion is not known, but dynamite is supposed to have been used.

Gen. Grant.

MT. MCGREGOR, June 22.—General Grant quietly passed the morning sitting on the piazza. At noon he entered the cottage and didn't again appear until after 3 o'clock. He then strolled about the piazza for a short time, but soon retired in consequence of the cool atmosphere.

General Grant went to bed at 9 o'clock. At that time his voice was sufficiently clear for him to say to Dr. Douglass, "I have had a comparatively easy day." At 10 o'clock the physician said the General was quiet and about going too sleep. His pulse was 72, and the doctor anticipated a quiet night. Between 10 and 11 o'clock Dr. Douglass retired.

A Storm on the Coast.

HALIFAX, N. S., June 22.—Mail advices from Newfoundland give the details of the terrible storm on the coast of that island last week, which show it to have been more disastrous than was at first reported. An enormous amount of shipping was destroyed, and many lives were lost. At Old Perlican all the fishing stages and other waterside property were destroyed, and upwards of forty vessels were totally wrecked. Two schooners only rode out the gale successfully. At Grates Cove the loss of property is said to have been considerable.

The Broken Everett Bank.

HUNTINGDON, June 21.—Twenty-five additional suits were brought here yesterday by depositors of the Bedford County bank, at Everett, which failed so disastrously last fall, against the persons who were stockholders at the time it was established, in 1860. These with the twenty heretofore brought in this county, the sixty in Bedford and thirteen before justices of the peace, the latter of which will doubtless be taken into court by appeal, made a total of one hundred and eighteen suits now pending.

Locusts Roosting in Tree Tops.

WABASH, Ind., June 22.—Myriads of 17-year locusts continue in the forests along Eel river, in this county. They first appeared in this section a week ago and the tree tops are now filled with the insects which make a noise similar to that of a train of cars, without cessation. Farmers were apprehensive when they originally came that vegetation would suffer, but thus far no damage has been done, and their departure without inflicting injury is looked for at an early date.

Dennis Kearney to Run for Governor.

SAN FRANCISCO, June 21.—Dennis Kearney announces to day his intention to run for Governor of the State next year on the workingmen's ticket. The chief plank in his platform will be that municipalities have the right to regulate workingmen's hours of labor. He says he will make a six months' campaign, and adds; "It will be the most magnificent campaign ever witnessed in California, and I will be elected, too."

Senator Sabin Ill.

ST. PAUL, Minn., June 20.—It is greatly feared by the family and friends of Senator Sabin that he is struggling with a fatal illness. For nearly a week the senator has been indisposed, but continued his daily duties until last Sunday afternoon, when he yielded and took to bed. A physician was summoned, who after a careful diagnosis, warned the family that Mr. Sabin was very dangerously ill, pronouncing his ailment to be inflammation of the bowels.

The Peach Crop.

WILMINGTON, Del., June 21.—The Dover Sentinel publishes eleven and a half columns of letters from peach growers. The gist of the information they contain is that on the whole the yield will not be so large as the earlier estimates foreshadowed. The June drop has been unexpectedly heavy in most of the districts.

Fire at Newport, R. I.

NEWPORT, N. H., June 21.—A fire broke out early this morning in the upper floor of the Nettleton block and that structure was totally destroyed together with several other buildings, including the court house. Total loss $100,000. The books of registry and deeds were badly defaced.

ADDITIONAL LOCAL NEWS

Major Reynolds' New Residence.

Through the courtesy of Major Wm. F. Reynolds, Tuesday evening, we were afforded an interior view of his new and palatial residence at the corner of Linn and Allegheny streets. This handsome structure built of the finest brown stone in the State, standing there in its majestic beauty, is a pleasing sight to all beholders. We wish we were able to give a true penpicture of its interior beauty, but are afraid it will be but a feeble attempt.

The lower entrance hall is finished in solid walnut, exquisitely carved and polished until it has the appearance of glass, the ceiling being entirely covered with the same. The dining room is a large and pleasant apartment, finished in oak. The floor is inlaid, in artistic style, with walnut, cherry and ash wood. Lending its attractiveness to the room is an elaborate chandelier, with nine jets, representing candles. Adjoining this is the china closet, and here one has a view of the china tastefully arranged on shelves behind glass doors. We then inspected the kitchen and wash room, both models of neatness and convenience. Returning to the hall, we see our surroundings reflected in an elegant mirror which surmounts a low down grate, inlaid with English tile. Three artificial logs on the andirons complete the picture, but heat is to come from the gas jets behind them.

We next entered what Mr. Reynolds terms his snuggery. This is rightly named as it is small, cozy and comfortable. We expect to spend most of our time here when we visit the Major. On the left side of the hall is the parlor, finished in walnut. Suspended from the centre of the ceiling is an exquisite chandelier entirely of crystal, beautiful in design and sparkling like strings of diamonds. The heavy cornice moulding, to represent vines and flowers, is beautiful. On the other side is the library, a large and cheerful room on the corner. This room is finished in walnut and contains two handsome chandeliers. The stairway is of solid walnut with a heavily carved railing extending all the way to the third story. Near the stairway in the lower hall is a handsome stained window representing Morning; half way up another representing Noon, and at the next landing, Night.

On the second floor there are six rooms, all large and pleasant, and finished in the different kinds of woods. There are also two large and cheerful bath-rooms. Mr. R——occupies the room on the corner over the library, and the room next to it is occupied by his brother, Mr. Elijah Reynolds. The room over the parlor is called the guest chamber. On the third floor the rooms are all finished with the same completeness, and are large and pleasant, commanding a delightful view in all directions. On this floor Mr. Fred Reynolds has selected a suite of rooms for his own occupancy. The gas fixtures on this floor are also very handsome. It is not often that one sees a house of such dimensions finished without the application of paint, but we did not discover a particle in any room in the building. Workmen are still engaged polishing the woodwork in some of the lower rooms, but when all is completed and the house entirely furnished Mr. Reynolds will be the proud possessor of one of the handsomest residences in the State; and we know of nobody so worthy to preside over an establishment of this kind as he, and we wish him many years in which to enjoy its comforts and beauty.

—E. C. Woods, of Boalsburg, was on Monday unanimously elected literary editor of The Lafayette, the publication of Lafayette College. The appointment to this position is competitive and the committee of judges consider ability only in rendering their decision. The requirements for competition are an essay of one thousand words, an editorial of four hundred words and a report of the junior oratorical contest.

—A festival was held in the Ironworkers building at Valentines forge, for the benefit of the M. E. church located there, under the able management of John Tate, Reuben Miller and others, the sum of $80 was netted which will be used to defray the expenses of the church. A gold watch was voted for, the contestants being Miss Florence H. Tate Miss Mattie Miller and Mrs. Frank Garret. The former was awarded the prize.

—Adam Decker, Jr., of Nittany, was a caller on Monday. We are always glad to see Mr. Decker because of the pleasure he occasioned us the first time he called. When the present proprietor took charge of the REPUBLICAN Mr. D. was the first subscriber and he has been receiving the paper regularly ever since.

Fourth of July Excursions.

For the benefit of those who would enjoy the great national holiday in visiting friends or making short excursions to attractive points, the Pennsylvania Railroad Company will sell excursion tickets, at greatly reduced rates, on the 3d and 4th of July, good to return until the 6th, between all stations on its lines, comprising the Pennsylvania Railroad, the Philadelphia, Wilmington and Baltimore, Baltimore and Potomac, Alexandria and Fredericksburg, Northern Central, West Jersey, and Camden and Atlantic Railroads.

Robbery at Fowler.

VAIL, June 20.

Robbers entered the store of Mr McCallister at Fowler Station, on Friday night, and carried away five sacks of flour. A live hog is also missing from a pen near Cook's store which, it is supposed, was taken by the same parties.

BALD EAGLE.

Business Notices and Other Items.

—Mr. J. W. Alexander, son of ex-Senator C. T. Alexander, has secured the agency for "The Personal Memoirs of U. S. Grant," in Bellefonte and vicinity. The work is completed with the exception of a few finishing touches to the second volume, and both volumes will soon be ready for delivery. It is a work which needs no praise from us and we believe that many persons will be eager to purchase it.

MUSICAL COLLEGE.—The 28th session of six weeks opens Monday evening, July 27, for the study and training of young ladies in vocal and instrumental music. For circular address F. C. MOYER, Director, Freesburgh, Pa.

—The early closing movement is being discussed in Altoona and is agitating the unruffled bosoms of Philipsburg's citizens, but it does not seem to disturb the equanimity of Bellefonters in the least.

The Circus.

The following paragraphs refer to O'Brien, Astley & Co.'s circus which will exhibit in Bellefonte on the 30th:

The show is one of the best that has been in this city. The entertainment last night was first-class in every respect.—[Washington National Republican, April 16.

The bareback riders, acrobats gymnasts, the trained elephant and other features of the ring were excellent. The clowns kept the audience in high glee, and the circus began its week's entertainment under favorable auspices.—[Washington Post, April 16.

The attendance was large, the ring features were excellent, the clowns were real clowns and kept the spectators in a merry mood. The horseback riding, as was every feature that entered the ring, was superb. In every respect it is a most excellent show.—[Evening Critic, April 17.

The best circus with the most satisfactory entertainment ever given in Easton.—[Easton Express, June 3, 1885.

No show that ever appeared here gave a better performance or more satisfaction to the masses. It is excellent.—[Allentown Democrat, June 3, 1885.

Unionville Notes.

Judging by the number of cars that are placed on the siding each day, this is truly the "age of bark." Besides the amount shipped by Griest & Co., the Resides firm is doing an enormous trade at this place as well at nearly all points along the line of the B. E. V. R. R. west of this. Five cars per day of bark and the same of ties, have been the shipping of this firm for some time past. But to notice the number of teams and the heavy hauling done, we can expect this number to be increased. To date Mr. Mike Davidson has hauled the "boss" load. Wagon and bark 7980, net bark 6500, which is equal to three and one-fourth tons. The distance being nearly six miles, this is decidedly heavy hauling. Julian, Martha, Port Matilda, Hannah and Fowler stations also receive and ship bark and ties in vast quantities for Mr Wm. Resides and his "prince of managers."

Mr. Harry Kephart is kept on the move night and day looking after the safety of this work. As all these points must be attended to, Harry is compelled to get there the best way he can. Passenger and freight trains, horse and buggy, etc., are his chief methods of travel, but on several occasions he was compelled to foot it part way and walk the balance.

Mr. W. G. Morrison, of Port Matilda, who represents Eldredge Bros. in Mills' Philosophy as pertaining to "Narcotics and Stimulants," met with the Union Twp. school board on Saturday in this place and succeeded in having this work adopted by that Board. Prof. M., by his genial methods, courtesy, and the superior work he represents, bids fair to supply many districts with this much needed work.

It might be in order to say here that the subject of "narcotics," &c., is receiving its share of discussion by our Professional corps at this place in regards the bad effects on the system, while deliberately firing up a nu e fer preparing to fumigate anew.

Mr. Cyrus J. Calhoun, who shot himself recently through the hand, is doing finely under the circumstances but has yet a very sore hand. Cyrus thinks the next time he pounds a cartridge into the chamber of a revolver with a chisel, he will hold the muzzle in some other direction, or keep his hands in his pockets.

Mr. S. B. Bathurst's handsome residence on Main St. is nearing completion and is becoming more attractive as the points of finish are being added.

For a small village Unionville is ahead in resident salesmen, in the persons of Messrs. Trovell, Pratt and Holzworth. These gentlemen do a large traveling trade and find that this point is their favorite place to permanently locate. ADREAN.

The Summer Solstice.

The Altoona Times, which we suppose knows all about it, contained this morning the following about the present interesting period of the year: "Sunday was the longest day of the year, the time between sunrise and sunset being fifteen hours. This is known as summer solstice, since for several days both before and after very slight change in the length of days occurs, and the sun is said to "stand still" with reference to his declination. For fifteen days, including Sunday, the sun rose at the same minute and it set at the same minute for four days. Although there was no change in the minute of rising from the 7th instant, there was a change of five minutes in the time of setting during the same period. Yesterday the sun both rose and set one minute later, and this same time of sunrise and sunset will continue until Friday, when the time of rising will be one minute later. The time of setting remains the same for the rest of the month, though sunrise on June 30 will be at 4.35 a. m., four minutes later than yesterday. In giving this time fractions of a minute are not counted, a change of one minute occurring before notice is taken of it. At the solstice the sun is on that part of the eclipse midway between the equinoctial points and the farthest from the equator. The uniformity in the length of the days at this point is due to the slight variation in the sun's declination. The winter solstice, which occurs when the sun is the greatest distance south of the equator will be on December 21."

Ahead of Bellefonte.

Woodberry is a small place of 500 inhabitants in Bedford county. Its council has just adopted the following resolution:

Be it enacted and ordained by the burgess and council of the borough of Woodberry, that all horses, sheep and swine found running at large within the borough shall be taken up as strays, and the owner pay a fine of one dollar for each horse, sheep or swine so taken up, and costs of taking up and advertising the same. Cattle found running at large during the night shall also be taken up and disposed of the same, otherwise they are to be sold as other strays are under the laws. The officer, or any one taking up such stray to have one-half the fine.

—The feature of the festival on Saturday evening was the unusually fine piano music rendered by Mr. George W. Pooler, of Green's drug store. All who heard it were surprised and delighted.

SPECIAL MENTION.

—We ask you to consider, after reading this, whether we are not correct: Is it possible to sell goods as low on credit as it is for the cash? If we make a simple profit of 5 per cent. for cash, isn't it better than 10 per cent. on the books? The money is made by the merchant and his customers in buying goods for the cash. Goods well bought by the merchant are more than half sold. It is small profit, quick sales and the constant turning of money that we desire. We have been seriously contemplating this move for some time. We have decided upon it, and we propose to treat all alike and show our customers and friends in so doing that it is to their interest as well as ours. We defy competition that does a combined business (credit or cash) to lead us or follow us in our schedule of prices. The cash customers that buy goods of a credit house pay for the time given to the parties that have goods charged. If there remains any doubt in your mind as to the above facts, compare our prices and be convinced—not for a few days or a month, but for all time to come, so long as we remain with you.

H. K. HICKS & BRO.

—The Watchman is rude enough to say that the two Bibles in the Democrat office are not revised and corrected. We are glad of that, for they suit us well enough as it is. And we hope no one will attempt to re-translate them, or they may disappear as did Enoch of old. See Hebrews 11:5.

The First Steel Pen Makers.

The word Pen, in Holy Scriptures, refers to either an iron style, or to a reed; the latter being the earliest form of pen used for writing on papyrus.

One of the earliest attempts to make steel pens is attributed to Wm. Gadbury, England, who, for his own use, constructed a clumsy article from the mainspring of a watch.

Steel pens were first brought into use about the year 1803.

James Perry, of London, commenced to manufacture pens in 1824, and was the founder of the firm named Perry & Co., who are now the largest pen makers in the world.

Their celebrated "U" and Falcons for correspondents, and fine points Nos. A. O. 4 and 1073 for schools, are, without doubt, the CHEAPEST PERFECT PENS in use—they can be had from all stationers. Sole agents for the United States, Messrs. IVISON, BLAKEMAN, TAYLOR & Co., New York.

LATEST TELEGRAPHIC NEWS

Liberty Formally Welcomed.

NEW YORK, June 19.—Flags are waving this morning from the tops of the principal buildings throughout the city in honor of the formal reception of Bartholdi's statue of "Liberty Enlightening the World." The shipping along the river front and the vessels in the harbor are gaily decorated with flags and bunting. One of the most noticeable of the displays is that at the pier of the French trans-Atlantic steamship company's line, which is fairly covered with flags of both France and America, gracefully entwined.

The mayor tendered the commander and officers of the Isere the hospitality of the city and invited them to a formal reception in the City Hall in the afternoon.

At 11 o'clock the vessels fell into line as follows:

The United States steamer Dispatch, with Secretary Whitney and Commodore Chandler and staff on board; United States steamer Powhattan, Captain L. A. Beardslee; United States steamer Omaha, Captain T. O. Selfridge; United States steamship Alliance, Lieutenant Commander Durand; the French flagship La Flore, Admiral La Comb; the French transport Isere, Commander De Saune; steamboat with the statue committee on board; steamboat with the mayor and aldermen.

Here followed a fleet of yachts of the American Steam Yacht club, among them Jay Gould's Atalanta, and the phenomenal yacht Stiletto.

The officers of the French flagship and those of the Isere were then conducted to Bedloe islands on the steamboat chartered by the American committee, where they made a short inspection of the work now in progress on the pedestal. On the landing of the French naval officers at the island the "Marseillaise" was sung by over 500 voices, composed of the members of the various French societies of New York and Brooklyn. After a glance at the pedestal for the statue and a short explanation, the French officers were conducted from Bedloe's island to the battery, where they were received by the different military organizations. The line of march to the City hall was then begun directly up Broadway. An address of welcome was one of the features of the affair and this evening a grand banquet took place at which a number of distinguished guests were in attendance.

Ablaze with Lightning.

POCONO, Pa., June 17.--Andrew Cobb and Lewis Cobb of Oakland went to Knob Pond, in Pike county, on Monday, to fish and remain over night. They went out on the pond in the evening to "jack" for deer. While they were on the opposite side of the water from their cabin a heavy thunder shower came up and they started to row back. The rain fell in sheets, and the thunder and lightning were terrific. Before they had rowed half way across the pond lightning struck in seven different places around it, and seven trees were in a blaze. The play of the electricity was so continuous that the pond was wrapped in almost a steady blaze of light, so steady, in fact, that the light from the reflecting lamp in the bow of the boat could have been dispensed with. Soon after the last stroke of lightning on the shore there came a clap of thunder that seemed to be directly over their heads, and almost simultaneously with the report a ball of fire shot down into the lake, a quarter of a mile away. The report was followed in quick succession by two others equally terrific, and each was accompanied by a simultaneous flash of light and the dropping into the lake of balls of fire like the firs.

The men were filled with terror at the scene, and bent all their energies to reach the shore and seek shelter in their cabin. The play of lightning continued, and when the fishermen had approached within a hundred yards of their cabin, which was near the shore, there came another terrible thunder clap and a flash of lightning that blinded them. When they recovered from the dazed condition in which it left them they saw that the bolt had descended on their cabin, which was in flames. The men then floated about on the lake for the twenty minutes the frightful storm lasted, momentarily expecting an electric shaft to fall upon them. Three more trees were shattered by lightning in the vicinity of the pond before the storm passed over.

The Cobbs are old woodsmen, and have been spectators of many violent mountain storms, but declare that never anything visited this region to compare with that of Monday night.

Decoyed.

SHARON, Pa., June 18.—Lawrence Davis, of Cleveland, was decoyed from the city on Monday by a spurious telegram purporting to be from Sharon and stating that Mr. Davis' brother, who lives south of Sharon, had been killed here by the cars. Davis took the first train, but has not since been heard of. The brother alleged to have been killed is alive and well and had not met with any accident. It is thought Lawrence has been murdered in this vicinity.

The Pittsburg Labor Situation.

PITTSBURG, June 18.—Twenty-five mills in this city have resumed operations since signing the scale, and notwithstanding the numerous rumors opposition to the conference committee's action, it is believed three-fourths of the mills of this district will be running before the end of the week. Others will start up when repairs are completed unless prevented by lack of orders.

General Grant's Illness.

MT. MCGREGOR, N. Y., June 17.—Dr. Douglass has this evening telegraphed to Dr. Sands to come here by the first train to-night.

During his morning airing upon the piazza of his cottage General Grant slowly and with the aid of his cane walked around the house often. He paused at times with eyes bent to the floor as though intently thinking and again gazing away toward the east where the Green mountains were within his view. But while out of doors, he most of the time sat motionless, with one hand pressing his handkerchief to his mouth to protect his throat from the cool air that had followed the rain of yesterday evening. The other hand grasped the cane which the general now at all times carries.

Later in the afternoon Dr. Douglass, in referring to the general's lactua condition in connection with his walk, expressed himself thus: "The disease is following its characteristic course, which is a course of steadily increasing exhaustion. We don't look for a cure from this change. Nothing can be a curative, but we do hope to prolong his life, and that is the most that can be expected. Under the exhilarating effects of this atmosphere and of this cool day, he has, for instance, walked over there to the knoll. He might do that easily and not be able to do the same to-morrow or next day. The course of the disease is, as I said, one of increasing debility."

Married a Count.

GALVESTON, June 16.—The fact was not generally known until to-day that Count Joseph Parise Von Hochkoffer, the son of wealthy and noble parents residing at Trieste, was married in this city on Sunday morning to Miss Minna Althof, a charming young artist, who for two years has been giving lessons here in painting. The Count, while making a tour of this country last autumn in company with a friend, came to Galveston en route to Vera Cruz, but after meeting the lady who is now his wife the trip to Mexico was abandoned, and the Count's Continental friend finally returned to Italy, despairing of persuading the Count to continue the journey.

The Count's parents sternly refused their consent to his marriage, and only a few days ago sent a threatening cable despatch commanding him to return to Trieste. The young man, who is 25 years of age and prospective heir to his uncle's great fortune, paid no heed to the parental threats. At 6 o'clock on Sunday morning he met his affianced at Trinity Episcopal Church, and in the presence of half a dozen of her friends the Rev. Dr. Bird tied the knot. They took the 7 o'clock train for San Francisco, where the Count will pass the summer with his bride.

The Great Statue in Sight.

SANDY HOOK, N. J., June 17.—At day-break the lookout sighted a strange steamer anchored off the bar. It was raining and foggy at the time, and he was unable to make her out. She got under way, and at 5 o'clock, when off the Hook, she displayed her signal letters. All doubts about her where dispelled, and the long-looked-for Isere was reported. The stars and stripes were mast headed and the vessel was duly saluted from the lookout tower. She passed, and going into the horseshoe bend of the lower bay, dropped her anchor abreast of the steam yacht Radah, which was anchored. The Isere is a bark-rigged vessel. Her long funnel stands midway between her main and mizzen masts. Her hull is painted white. The crew was cleaning ship now. No communication has yet been made with the shore.

General Stone stated to a reporter that he could not state positively whether or not the reception of the Isere and the gift she bears would take place to-morrow. He thought that the ceremonies would be postponed until Friday. The reception, he said, would certainly not take place until the arrival of the French flagship La Flore from Newport.

Latest Reports about the Great Storm.

LEMARS, Iowa, June 17.—As the reports from outlying districts come in, it becomes evident that the tornado which swept over Plymouth and Cherokee counties was attended with great loss of life, about fifty in all.

The course of the tornado was as follows: It reached Sioux City at 10:15 and Lamars at 10:45. laste l td about thirty minutes, and was accompanied by rain and hail. It then veered to the east, and was next heard of, damage being done as far east as Waterloo.

From Onawa, by way of Sioux City, to Cherokee, it is nearly eighty miles; from Yankton to Cherokee it is 120 miles, and from Cherokee to Fort Dodge it is 75 miles. This will give an idea of the storm's course. The duration of the storm at Lemars was an hour and a half. The damage in Cherokee county will amount to $20,000; in Woodbury county, $100,000.

Will the B. & O. Get In?

PHILADELPHIA, June 18.—The ordinances providing for an entrance of the Baltimore and Ohio road into this city were reported favorably to councils to-day. Both branches adjourned for the summer recess until September next, but a special meeting of select council was called for Wednesday next, when the Baltimore and Ohio ordinances will be voted upon. Should they then pass the select branch a special meeting of common council will be called to take action upon the ordinances.

A Child with Hydrophobia.

NEW YORK, June 19.—Herman Kipp, aged 5 years, living in Newark, N. J., was bitten by a dog in April last. The boy is now suffering horibly. Alarming symptoms of hydrophobia developed yesterday and the boy has been in almost constant convulsions since. He can live but a few hours.

President White to Resign.

ITHACA, June 16.—It is rumored to-night that President White will to-morrow tender his resignation to the University trustees, and that he will do so in spite of the dissuasion of individual trustees, professors, and prominent citizens. To-morrow will be the twentieth anniversary of his assuming the office of President. He purposes visiting Europe and compiling a work upon history and social science from material which he has accumulated. Presidents Walker and Angell and Dr. C. K. Adams of Michigan, and Prof. H. B. Adams of the Johns Hopkins University, are mentioned as his successors. It is believed that Mr. White's recommendation will influence the selection of his successor.

There are fewer visitors here than have attended Cornell commencements for many years. The ivy planting and the "pipe act" were considerably interfered with by rain, and part of the usual programme of class day took place in the armory. The graduating class of '85 was unfortunate during its undergraduate period, its ranks being greatly thinned by the examiners' pencils.

A Tough Prisoner in Court.

INDIANAPOLIS, Indiana, June 19.—Frank Whitney and Charles Daniels, convicted burglars, were arraigned in the criminal court yesterday. Judge Norton asked Whitney if he had anything to say why sentence should not be pronounced. The prisoner sprang to his feet, abused the court with a volley of profanity, and then, tearing away from the bailiff, hurled a pair of handcuffs at the judge. The missile passed over the judge's head, shattering a heavy plate glass. Whitney turned fiercely upon the police, and had to be soundly beaten before he was subdued. His friends in the court room pressed into the prisoners' box, and the officers were finally compelled to draw their revolvers. The two men were handcuffed and taken to Michigan City prison.

Another English Mine Horror.

LONDON, June 18.—A terrible explosion took place to-day in the Pendleburry colliery, near Manchester. Sixty persons have been rescued alive. Seven dead bodies have been recovered and one hundred miners are still below, and there is only a faint hope that any of them can be saved. The cages in which the volunteers were proceeding down to the bottom of the pit got struck in the shaft and it was two hours before the party could get to work exploring the mine for the missing men. Those who were rescued state that when the explosion occurred they fled to the bottom of the shaft, and that they are ignorant of the fate of their companions.

Homewood Post-office Robbed.

BEAVER FALLS, Pa., June 18.—The post-office at Homewood, Beaver county, in and connected with the general store of J. H. Witherspoon, was entered by thieves last night. The safe was blown open and about $75 worth of stamps was taken. A lot of clothing, cigars, etc., was taken from the store, the amount of which is not known at present. Ingress was made by taking out a large pane of glass. No clue.

An Embezzling Reporter.

LOUISVILLE, Ky., June 19.—Frank W. Gregory, a reporter on the Commercial, who came here about three weeks ago from Terre Haute, Indiana, was arrested last evening on a charge of embezzlement committed at Terre Haute. Gregory has been employed on various papers in Indianapolis, Terre Haute, Lafayette, and Crawfordsville, Ind. He is about 28 years old and respectably connected in Indiana.

Ex-Congressman Jenks Accepts.

WASHINGTON, June 18.—The Secretary of the Interior has received from Ex-congressman George A. Jenks, of Pennsylvania, his acceptance of the office of second assistant secretary of the Interior. He will take the position on the 1st of July, when, by the terms of the Sundry Civil Appropriation bill, the office is created.

His Malady Similar to Grant's.

BRIDGETON, N. J., June 18.—Captain William Parvin, of this city, is suffering with cancer at the root of the tongue. He was taken ill last Christmas and has been doctored for ulcerated sore mouth. He is unable to articulate distinctly. His physicians say that his affection is in every respect similar to that of General Grant.

One Chance for Pennsylvania.

WASHINGTON, June 18.—To-morrow the examination of applicants for positions as post-office inspectors for several states, including Pennsylvania, will be held at the Post-office Department. It is understood that but one inspector will be appointed from the State, and there are about ten applicants for the office.

Cornell Won the Race.

PHILADELPHIA, June 19.—The annual race for the Childs' challenge cup took place on the Schuylkill this evening, the contestants being the four-oared crews of the Universities of Pennsylvania and Cornell. The distance was a mile and a half, and Cornell won by a length in eight minutes and fifty one seconds.

Worse Than First Reported.

LONDON, June 19.—It is now known that one hundred and forty persons were killed by the explosion in the Pendlebury colliery, near Manchester, yesterday. The chamber in which the explosion occurred is so filled with debris that thus far only forty-five bodies have been removed.

Adolph Paller, carriage manufacturer, 119 Carroll Street, Buffalo, N. Y., states: "I was troubled with nausea of the stomach, sick headache and general debility. Burdock Blood Bitters cured me."

Big Bear's Romance.

QUEBEC, June 15.—A Mrs. Dubois, livig in St. Sauveur, an adjoining municipality to Quebec, claims to be a cousin of Big Bear and says his proer name is Edouard Lambert and that he is the son of Lewis Lambert, a farmer, and Marie Frechette, of St. Nicholas, county of Levis, and is herefore a cousin of the poet laureate, L. H. Frechette. She states that when Edouard was twenty years of ge he left St. Nicholas for the United States with two friends. Nothing was heard of him by his family for twenty years, when a letter was recived stating that he had been taken prisoner by Cree Indians and that they guarded him so closely that he was unable to escape. After this, by acts of bravery, he won the admiation of the Indians and was consequently obliged to accept the daughter of the chief as his squaw. Upon the death of the chief he was chosen to succeed him by the tribe. To substantiate the above Mrs. Dubois sties one of Edouard's brothers subsequently visited the Northwest and recognized Big Bear as his brother. The identification was unmistakable from certain life-marks which, despite the Indian paint, were discernible.

Brief Telegrams.

NEW YORK, June 18.—The jury in the case of Buddersiek, the builder, whose row of houses recently collapsed and killed and injured a number of persons, to-night brought in a verdict of "guilty." The indictment charges him with manslaughter in the second degree. The penalty is up to fifteen years. Counsel moved for an arrest of judgment and a new trial.

PARIS, June 18.—Official information has just been received to the effect that the French dispatch boat Reward recently reported lost in the Indian Ocean, foundered in a cyclone and the whole of the crew, numbering 123 souls, were drowned.

WEST POINT, N. Y., June 18.—Thirty-six out of one hundred and thirty-two applicants for admission to West Point academy have been found deficient. Among the successful ones is Andrews, the colored applicant from South Carolina.

BREMER HAVEN, June 18.—John Rittig, Sunday editor of the New York Staats Zeitung, died suddenly on board the steamer Neckar on its way from Southampton to this city.

VITALIZED PHOSPHITES aid most wonderfully in the bodily and mental growth of infants and children. For perfect growth there must be a large amount of phosphites supplied to the brain; if there is an insufficiency, the nerves become hungry, and oftentimes starved; the nights are restless, and consequently the days are fretful.

The ill effects of the brain starvation of little children do not end with childhood, but feebleness is continued through life.

VITALIZED PHOSPHITES is indispensible to all children who would learn easily and retain what they learn. Every thought carries away a moiety of the vital energy of the brain, and if it is not resupplied there is brain hunger. Every child who is studying should take the VITALIZED PHOSPHITES daily during the study months; even with those who are making no special effort, a daily dose as an occasional nutriment will give an assured means of keeping up both growth and vigor.

Remember, it is not a medicine, it is a special FOOD to brain and nerves.

A Great Man's Descendants.

The grand chorus of "He is is a judge, and a good judge, too," from Trial by Jury, was heard in the prisoners' room at the police court Friday morning at nine o'clock, and three men, soiled, red-faced and hungry-eyed tripped before Judge Hutchins.

"You were all drunk?" asked His Honor.

"We were."

"You were howling drunk," said His Honor.

"We were, we were."

"You are very frank about it," said His Honor; "really, this truthfulness is astonishing."

"Not in the least, Judge; we are three only sons of George Washington and we cannot tell a lie."

George Washington's descendants are now eating ice cream in the work house.—Ex.

Eating is a Torture,

And sleep often a mere travesty of repose, to the dyspeptic. Appetite is correspondingly impaired by this most prevalent of maladies, and headaches, biliousness, constipation, poverty of the blood, loss of flesh and of vitality, and a thousand annoying and indescribable sensations are its concomitants. It is, moreover, the progenitor of numerous and formidable bodily disorders. Obstinate as it is, however, its complete eradication may be effected by the persistent use of Hostetter's Stomach Bitters which communicates both vigor and regularity to the organs of digestion and secretion, relaxes the bowels gently but thoroughly, enriches and purifies the blood, promotes appetite and gives tranquility to the nervous system. Persons of weakly constitution and physique, who use this superb tonic infallibly derive from it the stamina of which they stand so much in need, and it is invariably successful in remedying and preventing malarial diseases.

Opening the Fountains.

In numberless bulbs beneath the skin is secreted the liquid substance which gives the hair its texture, color and gloss. When this secretion stops, the hair begins at once to become dry, lustreless, brittle and gray. Is that the condition of your hair? if so, apply Parker's Hair Balsam at once, It will restore the color, gloss and life by renewing the action of nature. The Balsam is not an oil, not a dye, but an elegant toilet article, highly appreciated because of its cleanliness.

The restaurant-keeper who never purchases anything but the cheapest clothing and seldom has a new suit oftener than once in ten years, has a supreme contempt for the customer who dines off a five-cent sandwich and a glass of water. Life is made up of pardoxes.

—The Spring Mills Hotel enjoys a very large patronage and is conducted by Mr. H. G. Shafer in first-class style.

—There is one thing certain—the firemen of Bellefonte are always willing to run to a fire if there is one to run to.

—A Spartanburg woman is so cleanly that she uses two rolling pins, one for the pastry and the other for her husband's head.—Ex.

—It is said that Centre Hall is 500 feet and Lemont 400 feet higher than Bellefonte. That is in altitude; wouldn't like to say they are so in other respects.

—It is hard to tell how much damage might have been done at the fire at Fellenbaum's on Friday had it not been for the presence of mind of Geo. Piper, who went to the rescue with a two-quart sprinkler.

—The remarkable change in the appearance of Mr. Ed. Speer is accounted for by the fact that he has parted with that wondrously heavy mustache that ornamented his upper lip during the Spring.

—Those who look at the stately piles of brick rising from the ruins of the burned district cannot but be impressed with the conviction that the fire which, while raging, seemed so destructive and cruel was in reality a blessing in disguise.

—Some excitement was caused Frithis afternoon by a slight fire in John Fellenbaum's blacksmith shop in the rear of Gordon & Landis' agricultural implement establishment. Many willing hands with buckets soon subdued the flames.

—There will be a very large picnic at Penn Caves on Saturday, the 27th of this month. It will be a union picnic of the Reformed, Evangelical and Lutheran churches of Madisonburg and will doubtless be one of the happiest occasions of the season.

—Mr. Jack Roush, who lived in what is known as Stitler's Hotel, below the Narrows, took an overdose of laudanum on Saturday, the 13th, and was found dead in his bedroom soon afterwards. He was quite well known in that part of the county, having been proprietor of the Rebersburg hotel a few years ago.

—It seems somewhat peculiar that the boardwalk along the mill race opposite Duncan's foundry cannot be repaired and opened to the public. It is against the railroad rules to walk on the track, but the pedestrian is almost forced to that alternative. If we were in authority either that walk would be repaired or something would "bust."

—We have received two copies of the Arizona Weekly Citizen, printed at Tucson, Arizona. They were sent to us by Mr. Benjamin Ligget, a former resident of Centre county. They are handsome newspapers and well illustrate the growth and prosperity of that distant and—as we are sometimes apt to suppose—desolate portion of Uncle Sam's territory.

—Mr. Edward Livingston, mail carrier between this place and Pine Grove, received a telegram on Friday announcing the death of his mother in Huntingdon Co. The telegram stated that the funeral would occur at 11 o'clock Saturday morning at Manor Hill. We sympathise with Mr. Livingston in the loss of such a near and much-loved relative.

—We do not think our exchanges show very much courtesy in their notices of the Evening Independent, Altoona's new one-cent daily. And then it shows a lamentable lack of originality, if not good taste, to follow in the wake of the Democratic Watchman in making sport of a paper that is certainly worth the price asked for it—one cent per copy. We instinctively defend the weak and the Clearfield Raftsman's Journal will please take notice.

—The editors of our exchanges are now sending up their annual midsummer howl that news is scarce and they do not know what to write about. So far as the REPUBLICAN is concerned, it does not have this lamentable experience, news having been more abundant and easier to obtain during the past month than for many years previous. But then some towns must be fearfully and wonderfully dull and we pity their inhabitants.

The Question Settled.

A subject about which the chief burgess and the borough council have held differences of opinion was legally settled Thursday. We regret to see these differences between constituted authorities and hope they will not arise again, but that each branch of borough government will treat the other with due courtesy and consideration. A history of the trouble is about as follows:

It appears that an ordinance was passed in 1875 authorizing the burgess to nominate policemen on the 1st of May of each year, which shall be approved by council. In pursuance of this ordinance, Mr. Powers sent in the name of Mr. Lose as chief of police with the names of Wm. Gares and Sam Walkey as assistants. The council referred the appointments to the Fire and Police committee (Messrs. Hillibish, Brockerhoff and Shortlidge), who held the matter in abeyance until the first meeting in June, when they made a negative report. Mr. Powers' recommendations were laid upon the table and Messrs. Montgomery, Gares and Folk were appointed according to the Act of Assembly, which requires the council to appoint police. We are informed that the appointment of police heretofore by the burgess was only a matter of courtesy extended to him by the council, and his nominations would have been confirmed on this occasion had his appointments met the approval of council.

Mr. Powers refused to recognize the appointments of council and alleged that Mr. Montgomery was not entitled to hold two offices, he then holding the office of borough constable and having been chief-of-police for several years. The council responded that the people knew he was a police officer when they elected him constable and that they had no right to ignore the will of the people as expressed at the polls. Mr. Powers thought differently and appealed to court. The case came up in Court on Tuesday evening, June 16, as the "Commonwealth ex relatione Jno. Powers, Chief Burgess, vs. H. H. Montgomery, Wm. Gares and Joshua Folk," asking for a rule of Court to show why a writ of quo warranto should not be issued against the above police officers.

Messrs. Hastings and Orvis began the argument before Judges Simonton and Furst, on Tuesday evening, June 16, the former for the plaintiff and the latter for the respondents. On Wednesday afternoon the argument was closed by Jno. G. Love, borough solicitor, on the part of the respondents, and ex-Judge Hoy for the plaintiff. The Court announced its decision, refusing to grant the writ of quo warranto on the broad ground that the officers were not such against whom the writ of quo warranto would apply and that the appointments of police made by the borough council were perfectly legal. This decision surprised those who had been led to expect something different by the partisan misrepresentations made by the Watchman and its correspondent, but it is what those thoroughly familiar with the circumstances of the case confidently expected.

—During the races at Old Oaks Park, Williamsport, Mr. Sol. Goldsmith, of this place, was a spectator. He also indulged in some innocent betting. One race interested him enough to induce him to stake a counterfeit dollar which rested in his pocket. The other party did not know the counterfeit character of the silver, however, although the stakeholder detected it at once and knew what Sol. meant when he remarked: "If I win you may throw the money away." When the other party also placed a counterfeit dollar in the stakeholder's hand that worthy must have chuckled within himself although Sol. did not suspect that his betting friend was trying the same trick. Sol's horse won the race and Sol. won the two counterfeit dollars, and on Wednesday he received a small package containing the money which he had to pay 25 cents to obtain. When our friend of the Bee Hive meditates on this event he concludes that he became the victim of his own joke.

Over the B., N. and L.

People who have leisure time and the desire to view the B., N. and L. road, now almost completed, take advantage of the free transportation afforded by the construction train which passes over the road two or three times daily. Quite a number of Bellefonte's citizens are noticed on it whenever it arrives or departs, and the locomotive when it came in this morning contained a cabin full of people and others perched on it wherever a foothold could be obtained. Aside from the scenery and the interest taken in the road, there is a novelty in journeying in that direction by rail.

—The market Saturday morning was quite a good one and people who attended were tempted to buy so much that they could scarcely carry their produce home, although one article (eggs) which everybody was in serch of proved to be very scarce. Letuce and radishes seemed to be particularly abundant. There was quite a number of chickens offered for sale. They were Spring chickens, too at least many of them tried to sping out of the wagons. Peas at 50 cnts per peck were offered in small quantities. Smear case was plenty at 10 cents per quart. Strawberries were sold at from 15 to 20 cents per qart, and although not at all abundnt, were fine. Fine white and red cherries brought a shilling per qart. Rev. Zeigler was on hand with a collection of beautiful geraniums and pansies, which found ready sale.

—The Western Union telegraph messenger appeared recently in a new uniform such as are furnished to all the messengers connected with the company, especially in the larger towns and in the cities. It is a very handsome uniform of blue flannel cloth with red trimmings on the shoulders and around the sleeves and stripes of the same color on the trousers. The coat is a double-breased sack and the uniform fits quite perfectly. Will Speer puts on numerous military airs since donning the new uniform and doubtless considers it about as good as a complete military course at West Point. It answers a good purpose in enabling strangers who may want to make use of the telegraph to at once recognize the messenger and thus prevent the necessity of hunting for the office.

—The citizens of Renovo will attempt to make the Fourth of July celebration in that place somewhat notable by having flags suspended from 900 to 1000 feet high. The way they will do it will be to stretch a mile and a half of common telegraph wire from the top of one mountain to the top of another and swing the flags to the breeze on that. On the 26th the attempt will be made to put the flags in position, and although some of the citizens of the town doubt the successful accomplishment of the feat many are sanguine that it can be done. The result, if successful, will be to give Renovo the honor of having suspended the stars and stripes at a greater altitude than was ever before attempted.

—It seems strange that in a quiet little town like this there can be people so utterly lost to all sense of shame as to enter a yard where flowers and plants are growing and rutilessly destroy them. But that is what was done Friday night in a certain yard in this town. The place thus visited we shall not name as the people who live there do not want to make it public, nor do they desire to prosecute the offenders, but it is hoped that this notice will be sufficient to prevent future acts of this kind, for if it is repeated either there or elsewhere in Bellefonte these midnight villians will be summarily dealt with.

A New Industry at Howard.

We are informed that Mr. P. Lauth, the enterprising iron merchant of Howard, has recently added a new industry to his plant in that place. It is a new and very perfect and ingenius method of making iron hoops of all sizes and for every purpose. It is an industry which will be profitable in this vicinity and Mr. Lauth has manifested his customary ability and energy in adopting it. We cannot go into particulars in regard to it, but if anyone from that section will send us a description of this new industry it will doubtless make interesting reading.

—A delightful social event occurred on Wednesday evening at the home Mrs. Lane on Allegheny street, about forty friends—all sedate married people—being entertained there. The pleasure was prolonged until about 2 o'clock a. m. when Mr. D. G. Bush looked at his watch and led the procession homeward bound.

—Mr. Andrew Carnegie has taken possession of his Cresson cottage. His invalid mother, to whom he pays devoted attention, is with him, as are several other relatives and friends. Mr. Carnegie has in his stables at Cresson the horses with which he made his famous tour overland through Scotland.

—There have been two recent deaths in Snow Shoe. Mrs. Ingols, wife of Samuel Ingols, died on the 10th, aged 40 years. She left a family of small children. Alfred Duey, son and only child of Thomas Duey, died on the 9th. His death was caused by a cold.

—Mr. Isaac Haupt has seven or eight acres of orchard grass which stands about 5½ feet in height and is as handsome as anything in that line can be. He will cut it this week.

Reduced Rates to National Encampment.

The National Soldier's reunion and Encampment will be held in Fairmount Park, Philadelphia, from June 28th to July 6th, 1885. There will be parades, reviews, and other interesting military manœuvres. The Fourth of July will be a particularly interesting day, and the ceremonies are expected to be witnessed by the President and Cabinet, and other distinguished people.

For the benefit of those desiring to attend, the Pennsylvania Railroad will sell excursion tickets from June 26th to July 6th, good to return until July 7th, from all stations on its system to Philadelphia, at greatly reduced rates.

Severely Injured.

Mr. Claude Thompson, son of Mr. Robert Thompson, of Snow Shoe, is an employe on the Snow Shoe passenger train between that place and Bellefonte. When the train reached the water tank which is being built near the round house at this place Claude turned to look at some ducks that were on the track and in doing so failed to notice the scaffolding around the tank, with which his head came in contact, knocking him prostrate. He was at first unconscious, but soon recovered and was brought to town and was at the Bush House Friday night. His injuries are quite painful, though not serious.

—Dr. Groff, with a class of Lewisburg University students came up on the cars on Thursday and left the train at Linden Hall, from whence they "footed" it to the Bear Meadows to study its flora and fauna. At Centre Hall they were joined by Will and Walter Kurtz. We trust the Doctor and the boys had a pleasant as well as a profitable time of it exploring the beauties of these famed meadows, where huckleberries grow on bushes 25 feet high, with grass as tall as a man, and speckled beauties in the limpid stream that course through the meadow. On their return they took in the beauties of the cave near Centre Hall.—Centre Hall Reporter.

—The Goddess of Liberty as she goes forth on her divine mission enlightening the world swooped down on Bellefonte Friday morning and we saw Mr. Al. Garman hold her aloft in his hand. She was standing on a pretty pedestal of silver and is the color of an American Indian. She is less than a foot in height, but stands in such an erect and striking attitude as to command our respect. Al. received her from New York City and she is a miniature model of what Miss Liberty will look like when in New York Harbor.

—The Buffalo Run church and Sabbath-school have made arrangements to hold one of their enjoyable and profitable ice cream and strawberry festivals on Saturday afternoon and evening, June 27. These festivals are always very successful because they are so excellent. The ladies and gentlemen and children connected with the church and Sabbath-school work for its success with a will and everybody in the neighborhood attends. Do not miss this one.

Death of Mrs. Livingston.

The Altoona Tribune has a notice of the death of Mrs. Livingstone mother of Mr. Ed. Livingstone, of this place, which is also referred to elsewhere. The Tribune says that she died at 11 o'clock Thursday night at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Miles R. Jones, in that city. She was 75 years of age and a native of Huntingdon county. Her death was caused by cancer of the stomach. She was a member of the M. E. church.

—A gentleman at Harrisburg says that the best time ever made on an American railway, distance stops and number of cars taken into consideration, was the run from Altoona to Harrisburg, one hundred and thirty-eight miles, made in two hours and thirty-eight minutes, including stops with a train of twelve cars, in the days when Colonel Scott was superintendent of the Pennsylvania railroad's middle division.

—There are many applicants for the position of assistant teacher in the High School.

SONNET.

If all my life were compassed in this world
Of flowers, of dimpling waters, and of birds
Half mad with music—where the breeze floats up
A symphony of colors, mocking words,
And tender as a lover's serenade!
Where time is marked but by the rose-leaf's fall
While morn, delicious, warms to glowing noon
And melts to evening, most divine of all.

If all my life were hid from passion's touch
In this sweet nook, I should not love thee, Dear,
For of thy high ambitions and brave deeds,
Th' applauding echoes—scarcely reach me here—
But oh! I know the world beyond awaits me
And King in all that world my heart creates thee!

HEALTH-STRENGTH-LONG LIFE

SECURED BY THE USE OF

Crosby's Vitalized Phos-phites;

Nature's own BRAIN AND NERVE FOOD.

This preparation is one of the greatest triumphs of modern chemical science. It is at the same time a remedial agent, and a natural food. It restores exhausted and wasted functions of the brain and nerves, and its daily use, while in health will prevent such exhaustion and waste. This is the only preparation of Phosphorous that has received the approbation of the entire medical profession in this country and in Europe.

Over a MILLION PACKAGES have been prescribed by Physicians in the United States.

SETIHP-SOH PHOS-PHITES

CROSBY'S
Vitalized Phosphites

Is a phosphoid or nerve-giving principle extracted from the ox brain and and wheat germ! It does not contain any of the animal substance of the brain, but the phosphoric principles dissolved in boiling alcohol and filtered from the brain substance. It is passed through felt filters, carefully dried and mixed with a little oven-dried flour from the germ of the wheat. Ephraim Cutter, A. M., M. D., in his microscopic analysis, testifies that it contains none of the substance of the ox brain; the active phosphites only are present.

By a careful and elaborate chemical analysis made by Prof. Percy, it was proved to be composed of the vital and nerve-giving principles of animal and vegetable life. The brains of animals and of fish contain an oily, nitrogenous hypo-phosphite, which, when separated from the fleshy part of the brain, is found to be a nerve-sustaining principle of animal life. It is entirely different in its effects from any compound made by chemists in the laboratory; the VITALIZED PHOS-PHITE contains in the highest degree this life-sustaining power; it requires no preparation or change in the stomach, but is in condition to be immediately assimilated into the blood, and ready for appropriation by the brain and nerves; it is essentially a special Brain and Nerve Food. Nature, not art, has prepared it for immediate assimilation.

In many forms of disease the digestion is so imperfect that chemical compounds, or even food, is not digested well enough to be assimilated and changed into blood. This VITALIZED PHOS-PHITE needs no digestion, it is assimilated at once, because it is in the exact condition found in all nervous structure, and is deposited in the nerve structure in the same condition as it was taken from it.

WHY HAVE PHYSICIANS
PRESCRIBED OVER HALF A MILLION PACKAGES OF VITALIZED PHOS-PHITES

And found this Brain and Nerve Food indispensible in the treatment of all diseases of debility, and in all mental or nervous disorders?

Because it is not a secret remedy; they know what they are prescribing; the formula is on every package. Because it is one of those perfect preparations that seldom disappoint them.

NEW ROCHELLE, N. Y., Feb. 16, 1882.

I have prescribed your VITALIZED PHOS-PHITES extensively for the past seven years. I have found it invaluable in the treatment of debility, in diseases of the nervous system, and as a Tonic where the vital forces were at a low ebb. E. W. FINCH, M. D.

LANDON B. EDWARDS, M. D., Editor of the Virginia Medical Monthly, says: "I have prescribed VITALIZED PHOS-PHITES in several instances, and have also induced friends to use it. Our successes will make us prescribe it frequently."

AM. METALINE CO., 264 Greene St., N. Y.

Some three years ago my friend DR. STEARNS, Superintendent of the Insane Asylum in Hartford, told me how highly he prized VITALIZED PHOS-PHITES, and advised me to use the remedy with my many friends suffering with overwork of the brain. Knowing that I was one of the "overworked," I made the first trial on myself. The change in my health within two months after taking it was so satisfactory that I continue its use from time to time whenever I need it. I have not had a severe headache since I began its use; it was my great trouble before. I have prescribed it for very many of my friends—young, middle-aged and old—and in every case with benefit. You have given me a Brain Food in the only condition in which it can be constantly taken without danger. Many medical men whom I have induced to use it on themselves now use it regularly in their practice. S. GWYNN, M. D.

GARRETTSVILLE, Ohio, June 28, 1882.

F. CROSBY CO.,

Gentlemen: Several years ago when suffering from congestion of the vessels at the base of the brain, resulting in terrible mental depression, Dr. Leonard Sanford, of the Yale Medical College, prescribed for me the VITALIZED PHOS-PHITES. The effect was excellent, beyond all expectation; in two weeks I was a new man. Since my recovery I have recommended it to a number of my professional and other friends suffering from overwork, brain exhaustion, sleeplessness, spinal and nervous troubles and kindred complaints, and in many of those instances I have seen its good results. I have intended for some time to write to you in acknowledgement of the good effects, but I suppose you are overcrowded with letters of this sort.

R. A. TORREY, M. D.

TALLADEGA, Ala.

F. CROSBY CO.: I am wonderfully pleased with the effects of your VITALIZED PHOS-PHITES. It is the best remedy I have ever used for Nervous Debility. For the enclosed money, please send me more by this day's mail. PAUL GIST, M. D.

SPRINGFIELD, Ohio.

F. CROSBY: I have prescribed over 700 bottles of your VITALIZED PHOS-PHITE, and know it to be of the greatest value in restoring lost energy, relieving debility, nervousness, and preventing consumption.

Dr. Sherman.

Rupture

PROVIDENCE, R. I., 10 Dexter St.

DR. J. A. SHERMAN—Dear Friend: I am sorry, Doctor, you have left Boston. Persons continue to come to my house to inquire respecting you, while many others write me. Many who left me said they would surely seek your aid. Your success has been wonderful, and I am quite sure without a parallel. To my surprise my large Hernia appears to be perfectly healed. I did not expect it at the age of 79. After receiving your treatment I was relieved from suffering which was fast taking my life. I have no idea I should be living had you not taken my case in hand. I weigh now 176 pounds, over thirty pounds more than then. I think you must receive a great amount of happiness from the relief given and gratitude rendered.

You owe it to my son in Boston, who has known many of your patients before and after healing, that I applied to you. "Go," he said, "to Dr. Sherman; he is doing wonders." I had failed of help from a dozen others and doubted, but he would not let me rest till I went. I bless the day I did so. It is to me a mystery, Doctor, that you have so wonderfully outdistanced all in your profession.

I hope your life will long be spared to relieve sufferers, and thus bless the world. Most affectionately and gratefully yours, REV. JOHN ALDEN.

The Rev. John Alden's case was quite as bad as Mr. James Corlew's, in Dr. Sherman's illustrated book. Those who value immunity from strangulated rupture, the injury trusses inflict, and the comforts of physical soundness should lose no time in securing the benefits of Dr. Sherman's treatment and remedies. His book, containing likenesses of bad cases before and after cure, with evidence of his success and indorsements from distinguished physicians, clergymen, merchants, farmers, engineers and others, is expressed to those who send 10 cents. Dr. Sherman can be consulted daily at his office, 251 Broadway, New York, except Thursdays and Fridays, when he will be in Philadelphia office, 302 Walnut Street. NOTE.—No operation or detention from business. Patients from a distance can receive treatment and leave for home same day. 17 24 41

Local Department.

—Tyrone will celebrate the Fourth.

—A lunar rainbow was visible in Altoona Sunday night.

—The Court House is beginning to look bright and handsome.

—The music of the Zion band sounded well Saturday night.

—There is only a mile and a half of the B., N. and L. railroad to complete.

—We much regret to state it, but it is a fact, that the days will now begin to decrease in length.

—The number of passengers on the construction train on the B., N. and L. R. R. will hereafter be limited.

—The festival in the Y. M. C. A hall Saturday evening was quite successful, about $40 being realized.

—Mr. Wm. Jones is one of the most fashionable gentlemen in town; at least he makes more calls than any other person we know of.

—The residence on Penn street owned by Jno. I. Rankin, Esq., is being greatly improved by new weather boarding and the addition of a bay-window.

—Miss Ollie Tate was married on Thursday evening, the 17th, to Mr. Samuel Martin. The ceremony occurred at the home of the bride's father at Pleasant Gap.

—Edward T. Murphy, son of Francis Murphy, the temperance apostle, was married on Thursday evening at Pittsburgh to Miss Maggie, daughter of Capt. J. J. Vandergrift, a well known oil operator.

—People now say that the weather is too dry and vegetation will not come to perfection. If a few days' rain should occur the same people would say that excessive rain was spoiling everything.

—On Saturday afternoon the Clinton County Agricultural Society elected Messrs. Joel A. Herr, George C. Sanderson and William Hayes delegates to represent that society in the election of trustees for State College.

—The growler of the Watchman believes that council should pay more regard to a borough ordinance passed ten year's ago than to an Act of Assembly. This is a strange sentiment to come from an ex-Chief Clerk of the House.

—We are informed that the entertainment at the Presbyterian chapel on Friday evening will be in the nature of a lawn sociable. The Mite Society will manage the affair and refreshments will be served on the chapel lawn.

—Mrs. T. R. Reynolds has been quite ill during the past two days and Dr. Pepper, a distinguished Philadelphia physician, arrived on a special train on Sunday to attend her, departing on the same day. We are pleased to hear that she is improving.

—Buffalo Bill's show exhibited in Williamsport on Thursday last and attracted an immense crowd. While the people of that city were looking at Buffalo Bill several robberies were committed and pockets picked. The most extensive robbery was $100 taken from a drawer in the county treasurer's office.

—While Judge Simonton, of Dauphin county, was in Bellefonte he went fishing with Judge Furst. The latter gentleman caught an enormous trout. It was 15 inches long and as thick as his fist—a genuine California trout. Judge Simonton remarked that he never saw such trout around Harrisburg.

—Miss Julia Kline, daughter of Mr. John Kline, died on Sunday at 1 o'clock, at the home of her father near McCoy & Linn's. Her disease was consumption. She was about 23 years of age. The funeral services will be held at her father's residence on Tuesday morning at 10 o'clock and the interment will be in the cemetery at Curtin.

—We are requested by the members of the Bellefonte Literary Society to thank the ladies who so generously assisted them in their festival last Saturday evening. Without them it would have been a failure; with them it was a success. The ladies are always willing to come forward and help on such occasions and deserve very much credit.

—Messrs. C. B. Holly and C. H. Davis arrived in Bellefonte on Tuesday about 2 o'clock on their bicycles. They left Philipsburg at 5½ a. m. They stopped at the Brockerhoff House while here. Mr. Holly is the son of the gentleman who invented the Holly system of steam heat radiators and his home is in Lockport, New York. Mr. Davis lives in Philipsburg.

Merry Marriage Bells.

On Tuesday, the 23rd instant, there assembled at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John Wilson, at Loveville, this county, a large concourse of people to witness the marriage of their daughter, Jennie Rumbarger, to Rev. J. F. Glass, of Clarkstown, Pa. As early as two o'clock the assemblage began to gather and by three the house was filled to overflowing. The day being very pleasant, it was arranged to have the ceremony performed on the portico, and hence the decorations were there displayed. The portico as viewed from the lawn presented a very handsome, and we might add, a very romantic appearance. Above the entrance was a decoration of evergreens, while on each corner were large, handsome bouquets of many varieties of choice flowers, while in the centre of the portico hung to the ceiling was a floral bell of almost gigantic proportions so artistically arranged as to almost lead one to listen for its merry chime in token of the happy event.

At 3 o'clock the crowd was gathered on the lawn facing the house, leaving the officiating ministers and Miss Rumbarger's parents standing on the portico, when at the announcement that all was ready the Rev. Glass appeared with his lovely bride-elect leaning on his arm. They were unattended and walked with firm and light steps to the softly carpeted spot directly under the floral marriage bell, where they were made husband and wife by the Rev. Isaac Heckman, of Centre Hall, Revs. W. R. Whitney and George Guyer assisting. The bride was attired in a dress of rose-tinted nuns-veiling, trimmed with cream colored oriental lace. She wore white kid gloves and slippers and held a white satin fan in her hand. She wore no flowers, the absence of which, however, was hardly noticeable owing to the profuse trimming of lace on her dress. After the ceremony was over the bride and groom remained standing in their places for one half hour to receive the congratulation of the over one hundred assembled guests, after which they were escorted to the sitting room to view the array of presents. Just here permit us to say that time and space is not sufficient for us to itemize the collection or give the name of the donor of each, but merely to say that it was a choice collection of presents and our estimate of the value of all would be from $90 to $100. There were three $5 gold pieces, one full set of dishes, glass ware in abundance, table cloths, towels, knives and forks, spoons, and a great variety of the necessaries of a married couple.

Supper now being announced they were escorted to the table which was set on the lawn under the large shade trees, and a really royal marriage feast was served to all. The bride's cake was excellent and a grand display of her accomplishment as cake baker, as she made it herself. We will not undertake to describe the supper, as we did not have opportunity to take a very close survey of all. After supper was over, things cleaned away and the dusky shades of night had fallen, they were then treated to a grand serenade by the Cross-roads Band, which was made happy by a sight of the bride and groom, the presents and a treat to cake and ice cream.

The happy married couple will remain at the bride's home till Friday when they will depart for Clarkstown, the home of the groom, and at once enter upon the duties of married life. With hosts of friends we unite in wishing them all happiness that life can give.

No Excursion to Lewisburg.

The Hon. L. A. Mackey, President of the Bald Eagle Valley R. R. and one of the directors in the B., N. and L. R. R., and Edmund Blanchard, Esq., solicitor for the same, worked with great earnestness to arrange an excursion from this place to Lewisburg on the Fourth of July. But on Tuesday afternoon their anticipations were blasted by the receipt of a telegram from J. N. DuBarry, President of the B., N. and L. It is addressed to Edmund Blanchard, Esq., and is as follows:

I am unwilling and will not consent to trusting the lives of passengers on an excursion train on the unfinished road to Lemont. Even if the road was now open and in the hands of the transportation department, cars could not be secured for the excursion. J. N. DuBarry.

The President of the B., N. and L. R. R. seems somewhat over-cautious in regard to the safety of passengers. The telegram virtually ends all hope of an excursion over the new road to Lewisburg on the Fourth and no one would want to go over any other road. So individuals may go where they please on that day, but the majority of us will succumb to the inevitable, i.e. to spend a prosy, hum-drum Fourth of July at home.

—A new directory is in process of preparation for Lock Haven.

Tuesday's Tidings.

Mr. H. D. Lee and his brother-in-law, Mr. Daniel Stine, of Fillmore, passed through town Tuesday on their way home. They have been traveling through Mifflin and Juniata counties and had a very pleasant trip. While they were away from home they saw the 17-year locust in all his glory. In Juniata county, these unwelcome visitors are very numerous, and as they fly through the air the motion of their wings makes a constant noise. The sparrows are feasting on the locusts and are about their only aggressive enemies, as the people have not adopted any means of getting rid of them. It is difficult to tell at present just how much damage the locusts will do.

The crop prospects are about as favorable as could be expected after a severe winter. The grain was somewhat damaged by the severe hail storm which prevailed on Sunday night two weeks ago. Mr. Lee informs us that on Sunday night, the 21st, there was considerable rain in the Seven Mountains.

THE LEMONT HOTEL BURNED.

Monday night the hotel at Lemont was totally destroyed by fire with its entire contents, and the family of the proprietor narrowly escaped from the building with their lives. The proprietor's name is Armstrong and he has as guests two young men also named Armstrong, but who are not related to him. These young men retired later than the family, but did not notice any fire about the premises. One of them had fallen into a sound slumber, but the other, being wakeful, noticed the room filling with smoke. It was then a few minutes past 1 o'clock. He awoke his companion and they discovered the house filled with fire, barring egress except by the windows. They leaped from the window and, procuring ladders, mounted to the windows of the proprietor's family, rescuing each person.

We understand that there was $550 beneath the pillow on which Mrs. Armstrong slept, which was burned. The loss is quite heavy. There was an insurance on the building. The origin of the fire is a mystery.

A Bellefonter on an Emigrant Train.

VAIL, June 23.

Mr. J. W. Cooke was the victim of a bad mistake yesterday. When he arrived in Tyrone, bound for Altoona, the emigrant train was standing at the depot ready to start, and, thinking it was his train, he got aboard just as the train was pulling out. He found the smoking car full of foreigners. Going into the next car, he found it the same and he then made for the rear end in search of the conductor. Finding him, he was, to his surprise informed that he was on the emigrant train. The train was now under full headway and there was no alternative but to stick to it. After being nearly suffocated he went to the rear end of the train. The morning being very cool, he was almost frozen by the time he arrived at his destination. He says he will find out something about a train before getting on one in future. BALD EAGLE.

The Short Wheat Crop.

The agricultural bureau, in its latest report, makes the shortage in the present growing wheat crop greater than any estimate that has yet been made up, the total yield of the United States being placed at 360,000,000 bushels. The estimated quantity, however, required for home consumption, when labor is unemployed and "times are hard," is placed at from 300,000,000 to 350,000,000 bushels, and as we have a surplus of some 180,000,000 bushels from last year's crops, and as crops are reported to be of the very best all over the continent of Europe the question still arises, what is to be done with the surplus, and how are farmers to get returns for their poor crops of this year?

Mangled in a Mower.

Mr. Samuel Elder, a very excellent young man residing in Ferguson township, received serious injuries Monday afternoon while working with a mowing machine. The horses attached to it ran off, throwing him among the knives. One arm was cut off and the other greatly injured. He is now in a critical condition. The horses were owned by Mr. James Watt. Mr. Elder is a young man who is greatly liked and the occurence causes much sorrow to his friends.

—The September court will be a busy one. A three weeks session will be held, and while President Judge Furst is trying the criminal cases in the court room proper, Judge Simonton, of Harrisburg, will try cases in the grand jury room.—Huntingdon News.

Spring Township Delegate Election

The delegate election for Spring township will be held between the hours of 2 and 5 o'clock p. m. Saturday, at the Commissioner's office in the Court House.

A Man Killed on the Railroad at Millhall.

On Saturday Mr. Jonathan Crape, a forgeman employed in the rolling mil at Howard, was walking on the Bald Eagle Valley railroad from that place to Lock Haven. There was a painful cancerous growth on his left hand and Mr. Crape's object was to have an operation performed on this career by a skillful Lock Haven surgeon. The man was evidently somewhat deaf for it seems he did not her the approach of the construction train from behind until it was almost on him. The locomotive was running backward pushing the train and when Mr. Crape was near the junction of the two roads at Millhall the caboose of the train struck him. He was then at the side of the track as if about to step off. He was knocked forward on a pile of stones producing two severe wounds on his head from the effects of which he soon died. He was brought back to Howard where the funeral will be held.

Mr. Crape was a very excellent man about 55 years of age and was highly respected by all who knew him. He had been an employe of the Messrs. Lauth at Howard for many years. He leaves a family of eight of nine children who have the sympathy of their friends and neighbors.

Business Reports.

The following encouraging reports concerning the local business and crop outlook have been sent to Dunn's commercial agency:

BELLEFONTE.

The crops are looking somewhat better, and with continued fair weather and the farmer may realize something for his labor. The general business outlook is fairly bright, with a fair demand. Collections, however, are a little slow.

PHILIPSBURG.

The crop prospects, judging from present standpoint, are very promising, and give indications of a fair yield. Wheat, corn, oats and grass looking very well. Business a little better than a month ago. Some of the collieries are working on increased time, and the output is heavier.

It is worthy of notice that of at least a score of similar reports from as many places published in the Philadelphia Press, Saturday, that from Bellefonte was the most encouraging of them all.

—We have received a polite invitation to attend the Fourth of July celebration at Renovo. It would give us pleasure to do so, but fear we shall be compelled to decline. We shall, however, attend if possible. The invitation states that a dinner will be furnished to all uniformed men, therefore if we go we shall wear a uniform. It will be a gorgeous uniform and we shall expect a gorgeous dinner. The invitation also requests us to state how many men we will send and what music. As we don't have an arbitrary government up here and as we don't happen to boss such government as there is, we cannot promise to send either men or music. Therefore, we hope Mr. J. P. Dwyer, the secretary, will not impose this obligation on us.

Distinguished Visitors.

On Saturday a company of distinguished people were guests at the Brockerhoff House. Among them were Capt. Wequhart, of the steamer Lord Clive, of the American Steamship Company. He was accompanied by his daughter. Another member of the party was Mr. George Crump, Vice Consul for England in Philadelphia. He was accompanied by his wife, two daughters and a son. The entire party came here to visit Master Ralph Crump, who is a student at State College, and as they did not have time to take the trip to the College the young gentleman was summoned to meet his parents and the other members of the party at that hotel.

Another Voice for Patton.

From the Cameron County Press.

The friends of the several candidates for State treasurer—and excellent gentlemen are named in connection with that office—are urging the claims and working for the success of their particular candidate. While the Republicans of Cameron County will cordially support the nominee of the State Convention, we believe we speak the prevailing sentiment of the party here in urging the nomination of Hon. John Patton, of Clearfield.

—A history of the "Old Bucktails" is appearing in installments in the Curwensville Herald, written by the editor, J. P. Bard. It is interesting to the members of that regiment, some of whom live in Bellefonte. Mr David Glenn, for instance, reads each installment with keen interest. The history is copyrighted and will probably be issued in book form.

—David Shontz, a citizen of Philipsburg, died on Tuesday night, the 16th, at his home on South Centre street, that borough.

—Inspections of the companies of the Fifth regiment are in progress this week.

Personal Pencilings.

Mr. James Hughes reached home from Princeton College on Friday morning.

Henry Breon, of Millheim, shot a black snake which measured 6 feet in length.

Miss Mary Meek returned from school at Bordentown, N. J., on Friday evening.

Mrs. Allison, of Potters Bank, is the guest of her daughter, Mrs Frank McCoy.

Miss Bella Rankin is now in Orbisonia, having departed for that place on Wednesday.

Mrs. Linn Harris returned home on Wednesday from Milton where she visited friends.

Miss Emily Natt returned on Thursday from Philadelphia, where she spent two weeks.

Major J. B. Fisher's new flouring mill at Farmer's Mills is not yet completed, but will be in a few days.

Mr. Emanuel Barr, of Philipsburg, was in town Thursday. He expects to move to Julian in a week or two.

Mr. Chas. Heisler was run over by the Logan hose carriage Friday, but with his usual good luck escaped unhurt.

Mrs. Atwood, who has been the guest of Mrs. T. R. Hayes for several weeks, departed on Thursday for Orbisonia.

Mrs. H. P. Harris, wife of Mr. Henry Harris, the popular undertaker in this place, is visiting friends at 123 South Poplar St., Canton, Ohio.

Col. D. S. Keller has been elected one of the presidents-at-large of the State Constitutional Amendment Association which met in Johnstown last week.

Hon. John B. Linn is announced to deliver an oration in Lewisburg on the Fourth of July and ex-Governor A. G. Curtin will be among the distinguished guests.

Mr. and Mrs. Adolph Loeband one or two ladies who accompanied them returned on Monday from Baltimore where they attended a fashionable Hebrew wedding.

Mrs. Brower, of Bloomsburg, and Miss Powell, of New York City, are guest at the home of Mrs. Howard Lingle. The first mentioned lady is Mrs. Lingle's mother.

Mr. Irvin Speer departed on Wednesday at 5:20 o'clock for Curwensville where he will assist in putting up a new telephone line between that place and Dubois.

Mr. John Rankin, son of J. A. Rankin, Esq., departed Friday morning to attend the commencement exercises of a normal school located in the western part of the State.

Rev. B. Hengst, of the Millheim Evangelical church, is recovering from an attack of illness, and is about to start away with his wife and daughter for a summer vacation.

Miss Ella Rhone, the accomplished daughter of Dr. J. W. Rhone, has been away from home during the past six weeks, visiting friends in Harrisburg, Danville and other cities. She is expected home in a few days.

Miss Gertrude Solt, one of the most charming young ladies in Centre county, favored Bellefonte with her presence on Saturday, returning home to Zion before the sun reached the zenith. A fitting reminder of her presence graces our sanctum in the shape of a lovely bouquet of flowers.

Mr. Robert Hunter, son of Benjamin F. Hunter, Esq., went to Lock Haven Saturday morning where he expects to organize a class in painting. As he bears letters of introduction to prominent people, secured one of the principal honors at the Philadelphia Academy of Fine Arts this year and is personally an agreeable young gentleman, we predict for him success.

Mr. W. C. Crom, advance agent of O'Brien, Astley & Co's circus, which is to visit Bellefonte on the 30th of June, was at one time editor of the Evening Express at Rochester, N. Y., and is now a resident of Florida, where he owns about 20,000 orange trees. He was first induced to go the South by the feebleness of his wife's health, which has been greatly benefited by the change.

John A. Woodward, Esq., the more able and genial of Centre county's two representatives in the Legislature, was in Bellefonte on Friday evening. Always a good looking gentlemen, his life in Harrisburg seemed to have even improved his appearance. There is something about the Dundreary cut of his whiskers which gives him quite a "distingue" air. Taken altogether, his legislative course was perhaps as good as the average. We do not forget that he took the wrong side on the Physiology and Hygiene bill, but it is quite difficult for Democrats to take enlightened views of such questions, and he made amends, in a measure, by his support of the bill to establish an Experimental Station at the State College.

Personal Pencilings.

Mr. Harry Brew, of Tyrone, was in Bellefonte on Sundey.

Edmund Blanchard, Esq., went to Philadelphia on Tuesday.

Col. D. H. Hastings was noticed at the Ward House, Tyrone, Monday.

Miss Jackson and Miss Meek traveled over the new railroad on Saturday afternoon.

Prof. Wolf attended the closing exercises of the Lock Haven Normal School last week.

Jno. M. Ward, the base ballist, is erecting a new dwelling house on his lot on Lamb street.

Miss Edith Harris, daughter of Jno. P. Harris, returned on Saturday evening from Wellesley College, Massachusetts.

Mr. Harry C. Love, a prominent hardware merchant of Tyrone, spent two days of last week in Bellefonte, departing on Friday.

Mr. Chas. L. Gates, the popular young collector for the REPUBLICAN, went to Loveville on Monday to attend the wedding of friends.

Mr. W. B. Miller, of Spiece & Miller, Philadelphia, is interviewing some of Bellefonte's business men to-day, having arrived on the 9:20 train.

The Misses Blanchard, daughters of Evan Blanchard, Esq., and Miss Hoy, daughter, of ex-Judge Adam Hoy, went to Philadelphia on Monday to visit friends.

Mrs. H. Sechler and Mrs. Sarah Potter went in a private conveyance to the home of Mrs. Sechler's father, Mr. Gilliland, near Boalsburg, on Saturday morning.

Mrs. Kemble, of Mifflinburg, and her daughter, Miss Georgie Kemble are guests at the hospitable home of Dr. T. R. Hayes. They arrived on Monday evening.

Mr. L. L Munson departed on Tuesday afternoon for Philipsburg. Quite a handsome light-colored high hat surmounted his classic brow, and was unusually becoming.

Messrs. Curtin Roop and Asbury Wilson, of Loveville, and Ira Ellenbarger, of Gatesburg, were among the students of Williamsport Dickinson Seminary who passed through Bellefonte on their way home on Friday evening.

Gov. Curtin and Mrs. Curtin are expected home in a few days. Mrs. Curtin and Miss Kate are, we understand, now in Ithica, New York, visiting Mrs. Sage, a daughter of Mrs. Curtin, where Miss Kate will probably remain some time.

Mr. C. B. Martin, of Philipsburg, formerly connected with Mr. Harry Williams as editor of the Ledger, was in Bellefonte Monday. His visit here is for the purpose of organizing a branch of the Royal Arcanum, a beneficiary organization which is modeled on a plan much like an insurance institution. He is meeting with encouragement.

—The Buffalo Run Methodist Episcopal church, near P. Benner Waddle's, after considerable improvement, will be reopened on next Sabbath, June 28, 1885, Rev. M. K. Foster, of Bellefonte, officiating, assisted by other ministers. Preaching on Sabbath at ten o'clock, also on Saturday evening preceding. Everybody cordially invited.

W. R. WHITNEY, pastor.

—Circus day is less than one week in the future.

MARRIED.

LOVE—BAILEY.—On June 18th, 1885, at the M. E. parsonage in Stormstown, Pa., by Rev. W. R. Whitney, Mr. David Love to Miss Katie Bailey, both of Scotia, Centre Co., Pa.

DIED.

McELWAINE.—After a lingering illness Mrs. Sarah McElwaine died at the home of her son, John, at Marengo, Centre county, Pa., aged 68 years, 5 months and 5 days. For upwards of 50 years she had been a disciple of Jesus. Her end was peace, and her "record is on high."

WOLF.—On the 9th of June, at the residence of her son, Jonathan Wolf, near Wolf's Store, Mrs. Magdalena, relict of Jacob Wolf, formerly a prominent citizen of Brush Valley, aged 78 years, 1 month and 19 days.

DUEY.—At Snow Shoe, Centre county, Pa., on the 8th of June, Alfred, son of Thomas A. and Catharine D. Duey, aged 9 years, 1 month and 21 days.

Dearest Alfred, how I miss you
When each day's work is done;
How I miss your fond caresses
At the setting of the sun.

It is hard for me at evening
Never more to see you wait;
It is hard for papa ne'er to meet you
With your kisses at the gate.

Little son, I am a-weary
Of the fret and toil of life;
Only death can bring the brightness
And the solemn rest from strife.

Will you meet me at God's gateway
When my last day's work is done?
Darling Alfred, will you meet me
At the setting of the sun?

Now Alfred sings the sweetest song
Of Christ's redeeming love,
For Jesus took him from our arms
To sing His praise above.

Dear Alfred, thou hast left us here—
Thy loss we deeply feel;
But 'tis God that can make all things right
And can our sorrows heal. M. C. F.
